IKE WARNS AGAINST BIG BUDGET CUT

Vast Purchases For Beck Detailed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nathan Shefferman, Chicago public relations consultant, testified today he made purchases totaling $85,000 for Dave Beck over a period of years ending with 1953. He said "I did not know it was union funds" he used.

Items purchased ranged from washing machines and refrigerators to nylons and "possibly garden hose." And, Shefferman said, he took care of an $8 repair bill for fixing Beck's false teeth in Chicago.

Shefferman said he believed the $85,000 total might include items purchased for Dave Beck Jr. and Mrs. Beck.

The testimony to the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee came under questioning from Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, who has charged that Beck channeled that sum out of Teamsters Union funds to his personal use through Shefferman. Compare Beck, boss of the teamsters, sat behind Shefferman as the ex-public relations consultant testified. Beck smiled at some of Shefferman's testimony.

* * *

SHEFFERMAN said that at the time he was buying things for Beck "I think that also according to the records you will find some $400,000 worth of materials were purchased for many people, both in labor and industry, throughout the identical period."

The committee asked Shefferman to identify a list of "samples of items purchased for Dave Beck by Nath Shefferman with teamster unions funds."

The list covered a range from $9.68 for five dozen diapers to $1,242.45 for "chairs, table, loveseats, screens, etc."

There was a guffaw from senators as well as spectators when Shefferman read an item of "21 pairs of nylons." He cleared his throat and said: "I happen to know Mr. Beck as a moral man, so it's perfectly all right."

Shefferman explained that he did such buying for union officials, getting them discount rates, as a good will gesture to promote his business.

The hearing was suspended temporarily so that the committee members could go to the Senate floor to vote on legislation pending there.

During this recess, Beck was questioned by newsmen about the item for "five dozen diapers."

"My little niece," he said, "has five children and possibly that could be it. If so there was nothing wrong about it."

* * *

BECK SAID Shefferman had been a close friend of many labor leaders including the late William Green, president of the AFL for many years.

"He could buy at a discount," Beck said, "and that's why so many of us bought from him.

"The whole matter of Nathan Shefferman could be settled in a court of law in five minutes."

Beck said the only question would be whether Shefferman was authorized to make the purchases through the discount houses and whether there was an arrangement for repayment.

Asked if everything was repaid, Beck declined to answer.

Cadet Sealed 8 Days In Car

Runaway Plebe Loses 15 Pounds In Ordeal

WEST POINT, N. Y. (AP) — The mystery of a missing West Point cadet ended Tuesday when he stumbled out of a boxcar of potatoes in Jersey City, N. J.

Jerome Lee Gibbons, 18, was accidentally sealed in the car eight days ago. He nibbled on potatoes to stave off hunger and thirst during his imprisonment.

Military policemen brought the bewhiskered youth to the academy hospital here. Doctors said he was weak but mentally alert. He had lost 15 pounds and was dried out from lack of water.

Academy authorities said Gibbons ran away on St. Patrick's Day because he was afraid he had flunked a physical aptitude test. But failure wouldn't necessarily mean expulsion.

"I just wanted to get away from it," railroad police quoted the youth as saying.

* * *

GIBBONS, a first-year cadet from Fulton, N. Y., said he made his way to Campbell Hall, N. Y., about 30 miles north of here. There he climbed into the boxcar the night of March 18.

Before the train left, the door was sealed. Gibbons was trapped in the darkened car.

The car was ventilated and he had room to move around. He made a bunk with the sacks of potatoes.

The boxcar arrived in the Erie Railroad yards at Jersey City the same night. But a loader did not unseal the car until Tuesday.

The four-inch thick walls of the car apparently muffled Gibbons' cries for help and the hammering of his fists.

O'Neill Mum On New Road Patrol Boss

COLUMBUS (AP)—Gov. C. William O'Neill says he has given no thought to naming a replacement for Col. George W. Mingle as superintendent of the Ohio Highway Patrol. Mingle, 57, announced Tuesday he will resign from the highway post about May 1 to assume duties as city manager of Portsmouth.

Mingle will replace Robert Layton as Portsmouth city manager. Layton resigned the $12,000-a-year post during the 7½ - month Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. strike which was settled recently. He went to Gainesville, Fla.

Mingle spent many days in Portsmouth during the strike, both in directing highway patrolmen sent there to guard against violence and in conferring with various groups about maintaining law and order.

He said he has no definite "preplans" about the city manager's post but will work with all sections of government.

Mingle, with the patrol 23 years, has been its superintendent for nearly 13 years.

Portsmouth Mayor Merle Odle said the appointment has been approved by city councilmen and that Mingle has accepted. He added that 23 candidates were considered for the post.

Easter Basket Conceals Drugs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—An Easter basket containing 13 ounces of pure heroin—each ounce carefully wrapped in colored foil to resemble an Easter egg—was seized by narcotics agents Tuesday.

George S. Maloney of the state Bureau of Narcotic Enforcement said the heroin would have had a retail value of $500,000.

State agents said they bought the heroin from Christopher DeOllas for $10,000 in marked bills in a hotel room.

DeOllas was charged with possession and sale of narcotics.

Teamster Boss Indicted Again

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Clyde C. Crosby, head of the Teamsters Union in Oregon, Tuesday was arrested on an indictment charging him with conspiracy to commit extortion.

It is the fourth indictment which has been served on Crobsy, who recently testified before the Senate subcommittee investigating labor racketeering.

He is accused in Tuesday's indictment of conspiring with others to threaten damage to the property of taverns to prevent these establishments from owning their own pinball machines.

Police Search For Local Girl, Tennessee Man

Pair Missing Since March 10; Mother Alleges Kidnaping

Local police today were investigating the disappearence of Florence Reaugh, 15, of 233 N. Scioto St. and Samuel Collets, about 25, of 233½ N. Scioto St.

The two were last seen here March 10.

Police say they have sent out a state alarm and an alarm to "points west" after the mother of the missing girl, Mrs. Alverna Ellis, filed an affidavit yesterday in Municipal Court, alleging that Collets had kidnaped Miss Reaugh.

Mrs. Ellis told police she thought Collets and her daughter were "just going for an hour's ride" together when they were last seen about 11 a. m. on March 10.

* * *

THE GIRL'S mother said she thought the pair may be headed for Texas.

Collets, who came to Circleville only about three weeks ago, may be driving a car stolen from Covington, Ky., according to police.

He was originally from Chattanooga, Tenn. and was representing a photography concern while in Circleville.

Boy Science Whiz Ups His TV Earnings

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Strom, 10-year-old science whiz, Tuesday night flashed to the $96,000 level in his bid to win a possible $256,000 on a television quiz show.

The Bronx schoolboy breezed through a complicated six - part question on fluorescent lamps and electricity. That added $16,000 to his previous $80,000 winnings.

Next week he will return to try for $128,000.

Tuesday night Robert was shown the component parts of an electric fluorescent circuit. He was given this introductory statement:

In this fluorescent lamp an electric arc flows through a certain vapor and transforms electrical watt input into radiation at a certain wave length. This radiation, in turn, excites the phosphor coating on the inside of the lamp.

Young Strom swiftly answered:

The wave length is 2537 angstroms; mercury is the vapor; argon is the other principal gas inside the lamp; ultraviolet is the radiation.

In the fifth part of the question he correctly explained that a 60-watt incandescent lamp gives only as much light as a 20-watt fluorescent lamp because the conventional lamp expends most of its energy in heat, not light.

Robert polished off his night's work by easily joining five wires to make the fluorescent light circuit operative. He was told beforehand there were 2,000 different ways to do it wrong.

Alliance Children's Home Condition Hit

ALLIANCE (AP)—State Fire Marshal Dean Leatherberry today ordered major repairs within 60 days on Fairmount Children's Home, jointly owned by Columbiana and Stark Counties.

He ordered repair of the hospital roof, interior plaster, chimneys, floors, replacement of rotted posts and general repair of the school building.

The institution houses about 100 children, all wards of Stark County courts. Columbiana County has sent no children to the home for nine years, and has declined to help pay for any repairs.

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court today refused to reconsider its March 13 decision refusing to review the case of Deloracy Carson of Washington C.H., convicted of drunk driving.

World News In Brief

No Benefit Seen From Heavy Snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The death toll stands at 36 in the spring snowstorm which hit the Western Plains and in the area it hit hardest there was a feeling today it had brought only limited drought relief.

New Mexico stockmen said they would have been better off without the snow. Some lost their entire herds in the mountainous drifts.

The six-state high plains area which got up to 14 inches of snow and drifts as high as 30 feet still was digging out today. But trains were starting to move again and at least the main roads were open, except in western Kansas.

The six-state area where the storm was a full-blown blizzard—southwest Nebraska, western Kansas, eastern Colorado, northeast New Mexico and the Oklahoma and Texas Panhandles — makes up a large part of the plains area hart hit by five years of drought.

But the blizzard's 70-and 80-mile winds scoured much of the crop and grazing land almost bare as they piled the snow up in high drifts.

Crop experts in Kansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska and Texas said the snowfall brightened the drought picture but there was not near enough moisture to break it.

Oklahoma reported heavy damage to peach, pear and plum trees which were in full bloom when the blizzard hit.

NEW YORK (AP)—Communist officials in Hungary are refusing to deliver letters from the United States if they bear the postmark "support Your Crusade for Freedom." The Communists have accused the crusade of trying to foment revolt behind the Iron Curtain.

LONDON (AP) —The Manchester Guardian said today Britain will explode at least three hydrogen bombs during her forthcoming tests in the Christmas Island area in the Pacific. Prime Minister Macmillan's government has steadfastly refused to say how many H-bombs will be exploded.

PARIS (AP) — Most of France's 170,000 university students went on a 24-hour strike today demanding a boost in government scholarships.

PARIS (AP)—Cambodian Premier San and his government have resigned after losing a motion of censure on economic policies, the French press agency reported today from Phnom Penh. A new government has not yet been formed.

CANBERRA (AP) — Only 5 Australian children of 1½ million inocuated with the Salk vaccine since June have contracted polio, Health Minister Donald Cameron announced today.

NEW DELHI (AP)—Asoka Mehta, Praja Socialist party leader and one of the outstanding figures in the opposition to Prime Minister Nehru's Congress party, has lost his seat in Parliament.

A Congress candidate in a Bombay district defeated Mehta in the election which ended March 14.

Iran Bandits Kill 2 Yankees

Officials Ambushed; Wife Of One Kidnaped

TEHRAN (AP) — Two American aid officials were murdered and the wife of one of them kidnaped when bandits attacked their cars Sunday night, Gen. Alinaghi Golpiri, commander in chief of the Iranian police, announced today.

Golpiri said two Iranians also were killed in the incident.

The U. S. Embassy withheld identification of the Americans but one source said the dead were:

Kevin M. Carroll, 37, of Issaquah, Wash., a Point Four area development adviser for Kerman, Iran, since 1954, and Brewster A. Wilson, 35, of Portland, Ore., block development specialist of the Near East Foundation and contractor for the International Cooperation Administration in Iran.

Golpiri said the kidnaped woman was Carroll's wife.

The general said the party was driving in two cars from Iranshahr, in southeastern Iran, to Port Chahbahar, on the Persian Gulf, when the bandits attacked.

* * *

HE SAID THE Americans exchanged fire with their attackers for nearly an hour, but the bandits finally reached the cars and attacked the occupants with knives.

The slayings and kidnaping were disclosed as James Richards, who is President Eisenhower's special ambassador for his Middle East program, concluded talks with Iranian officials.

A joint communique announced that the United States would boost its financial aid to Iran's military development program and also provide additional military equipment.

Defense Merit Pay Plan Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special Defense Department committee says a military pay plan based on skill and merit could cut defense costs by $5 billion dollars a year and might even make the draft unnecessary.

Chairman Ralph Cordiner of the committee told a news conference Tuesday the Defense Department should discard its present "antiquated" pay system and "pay people what their services are actually worth."

A total manpower cut of 200,000 could be made if the recommendations were put into effect, Cordiner calculated.

Hospital Patient Finally Identified

BOSTON (AP) — Mrs. Frances Hamilton Kleimann of Long Beach, Calif., said the Brighton Marine Hospital patient who has been unidentified for 12 years is her brother.

Lacking any other identification, the hospital has carried him on their rolls since 1945 as "Charles W. Jamieson—unverified."

Mrs. Kleimann visited the man Tuesday and identified him as her brother, James William Hamilton, whom she had not seen in 36 years. She said he is a native of England.

Olympic Stars Finally Wed In Triple Rites

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP)—Olympic champions Harold Connolly and Olga Fikotova, betrothed in an East-West romance that now threatens religious complications, were married in this capital of Communist Czechoslovakia today.

The handsome Boston hammer-throw king, 26, and his radiant Czechoslovak bride, 24 - year - old women's discus queen, disregarded a caution from a Roman Catholic priest and said their vows in successive civil, Roman Catholic and Protestant ceremonies.

Connolly is a Roman Catholic, Olga a Protestant.

The Rev. George Reinberg, who obtained a special dispensation to officiate at the ceremony at a 13th Century Roman Catholic church, said Connolly would be excommunicated for going through the Protestant wedding that followed in the Salvator United Lutheran and Reformed Church.

Olga, a medical student, has applied for a visa to enter the United States. The American consulate said that since the visa would not clear in time for the honeymoon, the couple probably would go to Vienna.

They plan to remain in Europe for several weeks while Connolly gives exhibitions, then go to Boston to live. He is a school teacher there.

COLOMBIAN SOLDIERS of the UN force search Gaza civilians to make sure they do not have weapons for possible border raids. Beyond is a prickly pear patch.

Ohioans Tell Experiences On Snowbound Kansas Train

KANSAS CITY (AP)—"Now I know how the eskimos live."

That is how Miss Norma Duff, 26, of Middletown, Ohio, one of 253 passengers, described two rugged days and nights aboard the Rock Island Railroad's Golden State Limited, buried in a snowdrift near Meade, Kan.

A rescue train picked up all the passengers Tuesday afternoon at Meade and stopped here for two hours late before continuing to Chicago.

Bedraggled but happy chair car passengers agreed with Miss Duff and added their descriptions of darkened coaches, some without water and all without heat in the raging blizzard that stalled the Los Angeles to Chicago train Saturday night. It was late Monday before school buses had taken all the passenger, including 22 children, to Meade. Most of them took turns sleeping in the high school gymnasium.

Some 15 passengers were overcome by foul air Monday in car No. 48, buried and insulated by the snow.

Mrs. Irene McHugh of Los Angeles and her baby daughter, Adele, both were overcome.

Miss Duff, helping Mrs. McHugh watch over the sleeping Adele, described their plight this way:

"I felt like I was in an igloo. We didn't have the kind of clothes for it, though. It was terribly cold and we had to open doors and kick out some windows to let fresh air in. The snow was clear up past the windows and almost over the top of the coach.

"We tore down the curtains from the windows to try to wrap our legs and keep warm. We didn't have anything to eat for one day and very little until the whirlybirds came over and dropped some food.

"I never was so glad to get out of anywhere as I was to get into that bus that took us in to Meade. Those people were wonderful. I didn't know coffee could taste so good."

Mrs. Hazel Hunter, 55, of Williamsburg, Ohio, said she and others were afraid to sleep at night for fear of "being gassed."

"Many of us prayed at night but there was no panic," she said.

Boy Plays Hookey Hard, Painful Way

NEW YORK (AP)—Thomas Callow, 15, Brooklyn boy, didn't have to go to school Tuesday. He was in a hospital with a bullet wound in the arm.

Police said his pal, John Acuri, also 15, told them he shot Callow at Callow's suggestion so Callow would have an excuse to stay away from school.

Both boys were charged with juvenile delinquency.

Baby Suffers Rare Disease; Life Uncertain

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Mark Steven Lawrence will come home from the hospital this week, but no one is sure for how long.

The Rev. and Mrs. C. J. Lawrence, parents of the bright-eyed nine-month-old boy, are going to "face each day as it comes and try not to think of the future."

Mark is the victim of porphyria, a rare disease which doctors here believe has never before been recorded in a child so young.

The disease, an inborn mistake in the baby's metabolism, interferes with the conversion of food into living tissues.

And there is no telling when it might strike again.

Mark weathered the first attack by a narrow margin. Doctors said that at one point Mark was clinically "dead". His breathing had stopped for a period of two or three minutes.

Mark was unable to swallow milk. His throat muscles wouldn't work. He couldn't cough or cry with any force and he became irritable and nervous.

It was the child's irritability that led doctors to suspect porphyria which sometimes causes severe jangling and inflammation of many nerves.

A big help to Mark was a tranquilizing drug used in treatment of the mentally ill. It quieted Mark's nerves.

And, the minister said, he and his wife prayed and their friends prayed.

British Labor Strife Growing

LONDON (AP) — Union bosses today ordered 500,000 more factory workers to walk off their jobs Saturday in the second stage of a "snowball" strike to shut down some of Britain's key dollar earning industries.

The strike began last weekend with a million employes quitting work in selected aviation, electrical and machine tool factories.

The Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions said it was now calling on its members in the London area to stop work Saturday because of "the complete refusal of the engineering employers to negotiate" a 10 per cent wage increase.

President Says Nation Destined To 'Suffer'

Senator Byrd Reports Chief Already Controls $70 Billion Backlog

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today America is going to suffer if any severe cuts are made in government spending for such things as foreign aid and national defense.

Emphatically, Eisenhower told his news conference he does not believe a cut of up to $5 billion, as suggested by Sen. Byrd (D-Va), can be made in the administration's $71.8 billion budget without giving up some essential domestic programs.

Actually, Byrd has said he believes a cut of $6½ billion is possible. And Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader of the Senate, has called for a slash of at least $2 billion.

As for foreign aid, Eisenhower said no dollars being spent today are being spent more wisely for the future peace and prosperity of the world than those being put into the mutual security field.

Eisenhower spent a good part of his half-hour news conference expounding his views regarding demands in Congress for substantial reductions in the budget for the fiscal year starting July 1.

* * *

OVER AND OVER, he expressed the view that substantial reductions would mean elimination or drastic curtailment of important programs.

He did go on to say that there are ways—in the field of government spending in connection with the states, for example—where it may be possible to save some money.

Byrd declared today that Eisenhower controls a backlog of $70 billion in available funds and, as a result, the senator said, Congress can't make any "real reduction" in spending without Eisenhower's help.

Byrd said the lawmakers can cut the President's new money requests and still not achieve any real reductions in expenditures unless Eisenhower cooperates.

"I fully realize the responsibility for enacting appropriations rests in Congress," Byrd said, "but the President controls the rate and the time of expenditures. It is my firm conviction that coordinate action between the President and the Congress is essential to bring about retrenchment."

Knowland said that while the administration is giving intensive study to possible economies, he does not expect Eisenhower to submit any specific recommendations in this field.

* * *

THE CONFERENCE ranged over these other subjects:

Bermuda — Eisenhower replied no, not at all, when asked whether the Bermuda agreement to furnish guided missiles to Britain would result in any increase in U. S. production of atomic weapons. He went on to say that Britain already is producing certain fission weapons, and that the Bermuda agreement means this country will help out.

Russia — Threats by the Soviet Union against Norway, Eisenhower said, are completely indefensible. He was referring to Russia's warning to Norway against allowing the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to set up atomic bases on Norwegian soil. A new Russian note suggested fearful blows against Norway in event of war.

Norway, Eisenhower said, has a right to take any proper step in her own defense.

Fifth Amendment — With the Dave Beck case in the headlines, Eisenhower said there is no doubt that in some instances the Fifth Amendment is an absolute safeguard to the rights of Americans or it wouldn't have been written into the Constitution.

Eisenhower went on to say, however, that he does share the common belief that a man who invokes the Fifth Amendment does so because he has something he does not want to tell.

O'Neill Mum On New Road Patrol Boss

COLUMBUS (AP)—Gov. C. William O'Neill says he has given no thought to naming a replacement for Col. George W. Mingle as superintendent of the Ohio Highway Patrol. Mingle, 57, announced Tuesday he will resign from the highway post about May 1 to assume duties as city manager of Portsmouth.

World News In Brief

No Benefit Seen From Heavy Snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The death toll stands at 36 in the spring snowstorm which hit the Western Plains and in the area it hit hardest there was a feeling today it had brought only limited drought relief.

New Mexico stockmen said they would have been better off without the snow. Some lost their entire herds in the mountainous drifts.

The six-state high plains area which got up to 14 inches of snow and drifts as high as 30 feet still was digging out today. But trains were starting to move again and at least the main roads were open, except in western Kansas.

The six-state area where the storm was a full-blown blizzard—southwest Nebraska, western Kansas, eastern Colorado, northeast New Mexico and the Oklahoma and Texas Panhandles — makes up a large part of the plains area hart hit by five years of drought.

But the blizzard's 70-and 80-mile winds scoured much of the crop and grazing land almost bare as they piled the snow up in high drifts.

Crop experts in Kansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska and Texas said the snowfall brightened the drought picture but there was not near enough moisture to break it.

Oklahoma reported heavy damage to peach, pear and plum trees which were in full bloom when the blizzard hit.

Iran Bandits Kill 2 Yankees

Officials Ambushed; Wife Of One Kidnaped

TEHRAN (AP) — Two American aid officials were murdered and the wife of one of them kidnaped when bandits attacked their cars Sunday night, Gen. Alinaghi Golpiri, commander in chief of the Iranian police, announced today.

Golpiri said two Iranians also were killed in the incident.

The U. S. Embassy withheld identification of the Americans but one source said the dead were:

Kevin M. Carroll, 37, of Issaquah, Wash., a Point Four area development adviser for Kerman, Iran, since 1954, and Brewster A. Wilson, 35, of Portland, Ore., block development specialist of the Near East Foundation and contractor for the International Cooperation Administration in Iran.

Golpiri said the kidnaped woman was Carroll's wife.

The general said the party was driving in two cars from Iranshahr, in southeastern Iran, to Port Chahbahar, on the Persian Gulf, when the bandits attacked.

* * *

HE SAID THE Americans exchanged fire with their attackers for nearly an hour, but the bandits finally reached the cars and attacked the occupants with knives.

The slayings and kidnaping were disclosed as James Richards, who is President Eisenhower's special ambassador for his Middle East program, concluded talks with Iranian officials.

A joint communique announced that the United States would boost its financial aid to Iran's military development program and also provide additional military equipment.

Defense Merit Pay Plan Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special Defense Department committee says a military pay plan based on skill and merit could cut defense costs by $5 billion dollars a year and might even make the draft unnecessary.

Chairman Ralph Cordiner of the committee told a news conference Tuesday the Defense Department should discard its present "antiquated" pay system and "pay people what their services are actually worth."

A total manpower cut of 200,000 could be made if the recommendations were put into effect, Cordiner calculated.

Alliance Children's Home Condition Hit

ALLIANCE (AP)—State Fire Marshal Dean Leatherberry today ordered major repairs within 60 days on Fairmount Children's Home, jointly owned by Columbiana and Stark Counties.

He ordered repair of the hospital roof, interior plaster, chimneys, floors, replacement of rotted posts and general repair of the school building.

The institution houses about 100 children, all wards of Stark County courts. Columbiana County has sent no children to the home for nine years, and has declined to help pay for any repairs.

Hospital Patient Finally Identified

BOSTON (AP) — Mrs. Frances Hamilton Kleimann of Long Beach, Calif., said the Brighton Marine Hospital patient who has been unidentified for 12 years is her brother.

Lacking any other identification, the hospital has carried him on their rolls since 1945 as "Charles W. Jamieson—unverified."

Mrs. Kleimann visited the man Tuesday and identified him as her brother, James William Hamilton, whom she had not seen in 36 years. She said he is a native of England.

Olympic Stars Finally Wed In Triple Rites

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP)—Olympic champions Harold Connolly and Olga Fikotova, betrothed in an East-West romance that now threatens religious complications, were married in this capital of Communist Czechoslovakia today.

The handsome Boston hammer-throw king, 26, and his radiant Czechoslovak bride, 24 - year - old women's discus queen, disregarded a caution from a Roman Catholic priest and said their vows in successive civil, Roman Catholic and Protestant ceremonies.

Connolly is a Roman Catholic, Olga a Protestant.

The Rev. George Reinberg, who obtained a special dispensation to officiate at the ceremony at a 13th Century Roman Catholic church, said Connolly would be excommunicated for going through the Protestant wedding that followed in the Salvator United Lutheran and Reformed Church.

Olga, a medical student, has applied for a visa to enter the United States. The American consulate said that since the visa would not clear in time for the honeymoon, the couple probably would go to Vienna.

They plan to remain in Europe for several weeks while Connolly gives exhibitions, then go to Boston to live. He is a school teacher there.

Ohioans Tell Experiences On Snowbound Kansas Train

KANSAS CITY (AP)—"Now I know how the eskimos live."

That is how Miss Norma Duff, 26, of Middletown, Ohio, one of 253 passengers, described two rugged days and nights aboard the Rock Island Railroad's Golden State Limited, buried in a snowdrift near Meade, Kan.

A rescue train picked up all the passengers Tuesday afternoon at Meade and stopped here for two hours late before continuing to Chicago.

Bedraggled but happy chair car passengers agreed with Miss Duff and added their descriptions of darkened coaches, some without water and all without heat in the raging blizzard that stalled the Los Angeles to Chicago train Saturday night. It was late Monday before school buses had taken all the passenger, including 22 children, to Meade. Most of them took turns sleeping in the high school gymnasium.

Some 15 passengers were overcome by foul air Monday in car No. 48, buried and insulated by the snow.

Mrs. Irene McHugh of Los Angeles and her baby daughter, Adele, both were overcome.

Miss Duff, helping Mrs. McHugh watch over the sleeping Adele, described their plight this way:

"I felt like I was in an igloo. We didn't have the kind of clothes for it, though. It was terribly cold and we had to open doors and kick out some windows to let fresh air in. The snow was clear up past the windows and almost over the top of the coach.

"We tore down the curtains from the windows to try to wrap our legs and keep warm. We didn't have anything to eat for one day and very little until the whirlybirds came over and dropped some food.

"I never was so glad to get out of anywhere as I was to get into that bus that took us in to Meade. Those people were wonderful. I didn't know coffee could taste so good."

Mrs. Hazel Hunter, 55, of Williamsburg, Ohio, said she and others were afraid to sleep at night for fear of "being gassed."

"Many of us prayed at night but there was no panic," she said.

Boy Plays Hookey Hard, Painful Way

NEW YORK (AP)—Thomas Callow, 15, Brooklyn boy, didn't have to go to school Tuesday. He was in a hospital with a bullet wound in the arm.

Police said his pal, John Acuri, also 15, told them he shot Callow at Callow's suggestion so Callow would have an excuse to stay away from school.

Both boys were charged with juvenile delinquency.

Baby Suffers Rare Disease; Life Uncertain

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Mark Steven Lawrence will come home from the hospital this week, but no one is sure for how long.

The Rev. and Mrs. C. J. Lawrence, parents of the bright-eyed nine-month-old boy, are going to "face each day as it comes and try not to think of the future."

Mark is the victim of porphyria, a rare disease which doctors here believe has never before been recorded in a child so young.

The disease, an inborn mistake in the baby's metabolism, interferes with the conversion of food into living tissues.

And there is no telling when it might strike again.

Mark weathered the first attack by a narrow margin. Doctors said that at one point Mark was clinically "dead". His breathing had stopped for a period of two or three minutes.

Mark was unable to swallow milk. His throat muscles wouldn't work. He couldn't cough or cry with any force and he became irritable and nervous.

It was the child's irritability that led doctors to suspect porphyria which sometimes causes severe jangling and inflammation of many nerves.

A big help to Mark was a tranquilizing drug used in treatment of the mentally ill. It quieted Mark's nerves.

And, the minister said, he and his wife prayed and their friends prayed.

British Labor Strife Growing

LONDON (AP) — Union bosses today ordered 500,000 more factory workers to walk off their jobs Saturday in the second stage of a "snowball" strike to shut down some of Britain's key dollar earning industries.

The strike began last weekend with a million employes quitting work in selected aviation, electrical and machine tool factories.

The Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions said it was now calling on its members in the London area to stop work Saturday because of "the complete refusal of the engineering employers to negotiate" a 10 per cent wage increase.

President Says Nation Destined To 'Suffer'

Senator Byrd Reports Chief Already Controls $70 Billion Backlog

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today America is going to suffer if any severe cuts are made in government spending for such things as foreign aid and national defense.

Emphatically, Eisenhower told his news conference he does not believe a cut of up to $5 billion, as suggested by Sen. Byrd (D-Va), can be made in the administration's $71.8 billion budget without giving up some essential domestic programs.

Actually, Byrd has said he believes a cut of $6½ billion is possible. And Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader of the Senate, has called for a slash of at least $2 billion.

As for foreign aid, Eisenhower said no dollars being spent today are being spent more wisely for the future peace and prosperity of the world than those being put into the mutual security field.

Eisenhower spent a good part of his half-hour news conference expounding his views regarding demands in Congress for substantial reductions in the budget for the fiscal year starting July 1.

* * *

OVER AND OVER, he expressed the view that substantial reductions would mean elimination or drastic curtailment of important programs.

He did go on to say that there are ways—in the field of government spending in connection with the states, for example—where it may be possible to save some money.

Byrd declared today that Eisenhower controls a backlog of $70 billion in available funds and, as a result, the senator said, Congress can't make any "real reduction" in spending without Eisenhower's help.

Byrd said the lawmakers can cut the President's new money requests and still not achieve any real reductions in expenditures unless Eisenhower cooperates.

"I fully realize the responsibility for enacting appropriations rests in Congress," Byrd said, "but the President controls the rate and the time of expenditures. It is my firm conviction that coordinate action between the President and the Congress is essential to bring about retrenchment."

Knowland said that while the administration is giving intensive study to possible economies, he does not expect Eisenhower to submit any specific recommendations in this field.

* * *

THE CONFERENCE ranged over these other subjects:

Bermuda — Eisenhower replied no, not at all, when asked whether the Bermuda agreement to furnish guided missiles to Britain would result in any increase in U. S. production of atomic weapons. He went on to say that Britain already is producing certain fission weapons, and that the Bermuda agreement means this country will help out.

Russia — Threats by the Soviet Union against Norway, Eisenhower said, are completely indefensible. He was referring to Russia's warning to Norway against allowing the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to set up atomic bases on Norwegian soil. A new Russian note suggested fearful blows against Norway in event of war.

Norway, Eisenhower said, has a right to take any proper step in her own defense.

Fifth Amendment — With the Dave Beck case in the headlines, Eisenhower said there is no doubt that in some instances the Fifth Amendment is an absolute safeguard to the rights of Americans or it wouldn't have been written into the Constitution.

Eisenhower went on to say, however, that he does share the common belief that a man who invokes the Fifth Amendment does so because he has something he does not want to tell.

A local man told city police that a sum of money was stolen from him in a Circleville store about 10:30 a. m. today.

Police say that Gerald Dumm of Circleville Route 1 told them his green billfold, containing about $300, was taken after he had left it for a moment on a counter in the store.

According to police, Dumm purchased a set of shoe insoles and put them and his billfold on the counter while he walked over to another counter. When he returned the insoles were still there, but his billfold was gone.

None of the stores clerks could give any clues as to who may have taken the billfold.

'SAMSON SLEPT HERE'

Israeli Nation Marks Spots of Biblical Historic Significance for Its Tourists

This marker, in both Hebrew and English, tells the passerby that this is where Samson, the strong man, was born.

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER

Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

WANT TO VISIT the place where Samson, the Biblical strongman, was born? Where David slew Goliath? The site of the wicked cities of Sodom and Gomorrah?

In a series of 300 site-marking signs like the "George Washington Slept Here" type of markers that dot highways and byways throughout the eastern seaboard of the United States, the Israeli republic is marking the spots where Bible history and lore developed.

The few test markers that already have been installed carry an unusual impact for visitors, and that is a major objective of the Israeli, but they also have realistic up-to-the-minute goals that they believe these signs will achieve.

The tourist problem is explained by Gen. Yigael Yadin, Israeli war hero and outstanding archaeologist who is in charge of the project of identifying more than 300 key Biblical places and giving them proper recognition.

Israel is having a boom of visitors which seems to be only a sample of what is to come, and they all dreamed of visiting the places they have read about in the Bible since childhood, General Yadin says. They want to know if the places actually exist where those things happened, and they ask the local people for directions.

* * *

"TOO OFTEN nobody in the neighborhood seems to know where they are," he explains. "The tourists persist, and finally when the place is found, it often has been dirty, neglected and unmarked."

So the signs are just part of the program, because the Israeli also are excavating many of the shrines and putting them in as good shape as the long passage of time will permit.

Mosaic floors of a Sixth Century synagogue at Beth Alpha have been uncovered, and a new synagogue is being built right over them. Catacombs at Beth Ahearim are being restored. Old roads are to be rebuilt.

Add to the effect in Tel Aviv, the Israeli at every opportunity stress the links between the ancient kingdom of Israel and the modern Israeli republic. It is part of an educational program in the schools, the army orientation program, and a speakers' bureau of orators stirring pride in the homeland.

* * *

THE SIGNS are in Hebrew and English, so that both visitors and home folk can read them easily. They are six feet high, two feet wide at the top, and have a wedge-shaped modernistic design that narrows to 18 inches at the bottom.

Color schemes will be used in somewhat the same way that the United States has marked such roads as the Lincoln highway. One sequence of signs will be light blue, another dark green, and so on.

They also aim for a blending of the past with the present, because they stress a continuous stream of history. For instance, Castel, a Crusaders' fortress of the Middle Ages, is one of the first places marked. The sites of the various epochal battles for Jerusalem are carried right into the modern era climaxed by the battle of April 9, 1948.

* * *

A DOZEN observation posts are being prepared on top of mountains to give fine panoramic views of the Holy Land. These will have special markers somewhat like the one in Arlington cemetery at Washington, D. C., where you can see in bronze the city planner L'Enfante's master plan for the United States capital, and compare it with the city itself spread out before you.

These panoramic vistas particularly delight the Israeli, because they give them a chance to show off the winding mountain roads overlooking breathtaking vistas, revealing a really beautiful and varied scenery which erases, apparently, the general misconception among people who never have been in Israeli, that the land is bleak and barren.

High Court Refuses Review Of Damage Action By Child

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio's supreme court Wednesday refused to rule on the question of whether a child, whose father was injured in a traffic accident, can sue for loss of companionship.

The court unanimously dismissed an appeal from Montgomery County Court decisions denying such damages to Phyllis Gibson, whose father, James L. Gibson, was injured in the accident.

Suits by Phyllis and three other children were brought through their father against Marilyn Anne Johnston and her father, Kenneth B. Johnston. Johnston signed his daughter's driving license issued when she was 16 on Aug. 14, 1954. Two days later a car operated by Marilyn hit Gibson as he attempted to cross U.S. 25 south of Kettering. Another suit asking $100,000 for injuries is pending.

In other actions, the Supreme Court:

Rejected the appeal of the Bank of New York from Hancock County Court dismissal of a suit to block appointment of the Cleveland Trust Co. and Thomas A. Orndorff, Findlay, as co-trustees for the sale of assets in the three million dollar estate of the late Miss Helen Bicknell, Findlay.

The New York bank was named trustee in the will of Miss Bicknell, who died May 29, 1955. The will left the bulk of her estate in trust to Miss Sara E. Burk of Findlay and the Hospital for Special Surgery, New York.

Refused to reconsider a decision banning use of highway improvement funds to plan a 4½ million dollar garage under the State House lawn.

The recent decision on a suit by Olin Grandle, operator of Cincinnati and Columbus parking facilities, will not block plans for the garage, an official of the Underground Parking Garage Commission announced.

Unanimously upheld a Hamilton County Common Pleas Court decision denying some two million dollars in refunds to about 250,000 customers of Cincinnati and Suburban Telephone Co.

Keko Industries Inc. and Knapp Brothers Manufacturing Co., both of Cincinnati, sued on behalf of themselves and others for refunds on the difference between rates from May 28, 1953, to June 4, 1954, when they were reduced by the Public Utilities Commission under a Supreme Court order. The company collected the higher rate during the period.

Unanimously affirmed Hamilton County Court decisions awarding $47,000 to the Queen City Realty Co. for land taken by the state for construction of Cincinnati's Third Street Viaduct.

Affirmed Shelby County Appellate Court dismissal of a mandamus suit by I. H. Wilson and others to require transfer of territory from the Shelby County School District to the Sidney City School District.

Egyptian Plan For Suez Given U.N. Secretary

Proposal Reported To Be Favorable To U. S. Interests

CAIRO (AP) — Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold left for his U. N. headquarters today with Egypt's plan for running the Suez Canal. Informed sources said the plan "won't please everyone but it should be acceptable to the United States."

The plan was not made public officially but the informants said Hammarskjold has "ameliorated" President Nasser's original views during their talks that began here last week.

"Hammarskjold had to get the best possible plan out of a bad situation," they added. "Now he will carry the plan to interested parties at the United Nations."

U. N., Egyptian and diplomatic sources said the main provisions of the plan calls for:

All canal tolls to be collected by Egyptian authorities, as previously emphasized by Egypt.

Placing of a fixed percentage of tolls in a separate account for use by a U. N. technical assistance board for maintenance and development of the canal. One report said this would be 25 per cent.

* * *

ANOTHER percentage to be placed in escrow for settlement of compensation claims by stockholders of the old Suez Canal Co. One source estimated this amount at 5 per cent.

Reaffirmation of the 1888 Constantinople Convention to guarantee freedom of shipping through the canal.

Hammarskjold was said to feel the 1888 convention guaranteeing unhindered access to the canal adequate in its present form, although it might be revised later.

The informants said any country believing the convention was not being carried out could appeal to the World Court.

While the convention calls for freedom of shipping for all nations, Egypt has barred Israeli ships on grounds that a technical state of war still exists between Egypt and Israel. The convention provides for refusal of passage to "enemy" ships.

Hammarskjold was said to expect that Egypt ultimately will accept some kind of canal users' group to discuss toll rates, canal improvements and similar problems, but the present plan was reported to have left that point unanswered.

Reports from Tucker's Town, Bermuda, where Canadian officials have been getting a rundown on last week's talks between President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Macmillan, said it appeared the United States and Britain were resigned to modifying their demands for international control of the canal.

The tug Edgar Bonnet, last barrier in the Suez Canal to passage of ships of up to 20,000 tons, was lifted from the channel bottom this week and was to be towed out of the way today. Its removal will leave only an official Egyptian OK necessary for resumption of three fourths or more of normal canal traffic.

Kiwanis Club Awarded For Achievements

The Circleville Kiwanis Club has been awarded honorable mention in the Silver Section in its division for 1956.

The local organization earned a place in the Silver Section by maintaining a membership in the 70 to 90 number group. In addition to membership status, the award was given for projects and achievements, committee reports and general conduct of the club.

In a letter sent to Bill Ammer, Kiwanis president in 1956, Stuart M. Henderson, immediate past governor of Ohio District Kiwanis, praised the local group for its fine yearly showing. The letter also praised Ammer's outstanding leadership.

The Circleville club will receive its silver award ribbon at a meeting to be held in Toledo in the near future.

The local club has also received recognition for leading standings in its division in an inter-club contest. The contest is based on the number of members who travel to other cities and communities to attend Kiwanis meetings and special events.

$300 In Wallet Stolen From Store Patron

A local man told city police that a sum of money was stolen from him in a Circleville store about 10:30 a. m. today.

Police say that Gerald Dumm of Circleville Route 1 told them his green billfold, containing about $300, was taken after he had left it for a moment on a counter in the store.

According to police, Dumm purchased a set of shoe insoles and put them and his billfold on the counter while he walked over to another counter. When he returned the insoles were still there, but his billfold was gone.

None of the stores clerks could give any clues as to who may have taken the billfold.

'SAMSON SLEPT HERE'

Israeli Nation Marks Spots of Biblical Historic Significance for Its Tourists

This marker, in both Hebrew and English, tells the passerby that this is where Samson, the strong man, was born.

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER

Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

WANT TO VISIT the place where Samson, the Biblical strongman, was born? Where David slew Goliath? The site of the wicked cities of Sodom and Gomorrah?

In a series of 300 site-marking signs like the "George Washington Slept Here" type of markers that dot highways and byways throughout the eastern seaboard of the United States, the Israeli republic is marking the spots where Bible history and lore developed.

The few test markers that already have been installed carry an unusual impact for visitors, and that is a major objective of the Israeli, but they also have realistic up-to-the-minute goals that they believe these signs will achieve.

The tourist problem is explained by Gen. Yigael Yadin, Israeli war hero and outstanding archaeologist who is in charge of the project of identifying more than 300 key Biblical places and giving them proper recognition.

Israel is having a boom of visitors which seems to be only a sample of what is to come, and they all dreamed of visiting the places they have read about in the Bible since childhood, General Yadin says. They want to know if the places actually exist where those things happened, and they ask the local people for directions.

* * *

"TOO OFTEN nobody in the neighborhood seems to know where they are," he explains. "The tourists persist, and finally when the place is found, it often has been dirty, neglected and unmarked."

So the signs are just part of the program, because the Israeli also are excavating many of the shrines and putting them in as good shape as the long passage of time will permit.

Mosaic floors of a Sixth Century synagogue at Beth Alpha have been uncovered, and a new synagogue is being built right over them. Catacombs at Beth Ahearim are being restored. Old roads are to be rebuilt.

As to the effect in Tel Aviv, the Israeli at every opportunity stress the links between the ancient kingdom of Israel and the modern Israeli republic. It is part of an educational program in the schools, the army orientation program, and a speakers' bureau of orators stirring pride in the homeland.

* * *

THE SIGNS are in Hebrew and English, so that both visitors and home folk can read them easily. They are six feet high, two feet wide at the top, and have a wedge-shaped modernistic design that narrows to 18 inches at the bottom.

Color schemes will be used in somewhat the same way that the United States has marked such roads as the Lincoln highway. One sequence of signs will be light blue, another dark green, and so on.

They also aim for a blending of the past with the present, because they stress a continuous stream of history. For instance, Castel, a Crusaders' fortress of the Middle Ages, is one of the first places marked. The sites of the various epochal battles for Jerusalem are carried right into the modern era climaxed by the battle of April 9, 1948.

* * *

A DOZEN observation posts are being prepared on top of mountains to give fine panoramic views of the Holy Land. These will have special markers somewhat like the one in Arlington cemetery at Washington, D. C., where you can see in bronze the city planner L'Enfante's master plan for the United States capital, and compare it with the city itself spread out before you.

These panoramic vistas particularly delight the Israeli, because they give them a chance to show off the winding mountain roads overlooking breathtaking vistas, revealing a really beautiful and varied scenery which erases, apparently, the general misconception among people who never have been in Israeli, that the land is bleak and barren.

High Court Refuses Review Of Damage Action By Child

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio's supreme court Wednesday refused to rule on the question of whether a child, whose father was injured in a traffic accident, can sue for loss of companionship.

The court unanimously dismissed an appeal from Montgomery County Court decisions denying such damages to Phyllis Gibson, whose father, James L. Gibson, was injured in the accident.

Suits by Phyllis and three other children were brought through their father against Marilyn Anne Johnston and her father, Kenneth B. Johnston. Johnston signed his daughter's driving license issued when she was 16 on Aug. 14, 1954. Two days later a car operated by Marilyn hit Gibson as he attempted to cross U.S. 25 south of Kettering. Another suit asking $100,000 for injuries is pending.

In other actions, the Supreme Court:

Rejected the appeal of the Bank of New York from Hancock County Court dismissal of a suit to block appointment of the Cleveland Trust Co. and Thomas A. Orndorff, Findlay, as co-trustees for the sale of assets in the three million dollar estate of the late Miss Helen Bicknell, Findlay.

The New York bank was named trustee in the will of Miss Bicknell, who died May 29, 1955. The will left the bulk of her estate in trust to Miss Sara E. Burk of Findlay and the Hospital for Special Surgery, New York.

Refused to reconsider a decision banning use of highway improvement funds to plan a 4½ million dollar garage under the State House lawn.

The recent decision on a suit by Olin Grandle, operator of Cincinnati and Columbus parking facilities, will not block plans for the garage, an official of the Underground Parking Garage Commission announced.

Unanimously upheld a Hamilton County Common Pleas Court decision denying some two million dollars in refunds to about 250,000 customers of Cincinnati and Suburban Telephone Co.

Keko Industries Inc. and Knapp Brothers Manufacturing Co., both of Cincinnati, sued on behalf of themselves and others for refunds on the difference between rates from May 28, 1953, to June 4, 1954, when they were reduced by the Public Utilities Commission under a Supreme Court order. The company collected the higher rate during the period.

Unanimously affirmed Hamilton County Court decisions awarding $47,000 to the Queen City Realty Co. for land taken by the state for construction of Cincinnati's Third Street Viaduct.

Affirmed Shelby County Appellate Court dismissal of a mandamus suit by I. H. Wilson and others to require transfer of territory from the Shelby County School District to the Sidney City School District.

Egyptian Plan For Suez Given U.N. Secretary

Proposal Reported To Be Favorable To U. S. Interests

CAIRO (AP) — Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold left for his U. N. headquarters today with Egypt's plan for running the Suez Canal. Informed sources said the plan "won't please everyone but it should be acceptable to the United States."

The plan was not made public officially but the informants said Hammarskjold has "ameliorated" President Nasser's original views during their talks that began here last week.

"Hammarskjold had to get the best possible plan out of a bad situation," they added. "Now he will carry the plan to interested parties at the United Nations."

U. N., Egyptian and diplomatic sources said the main provisions of the plan calls for:

All canal tolls to be collected by Egyptian authorities, as previously emphasized by Egypt.

Placing of a fixed percentage of tolls in a separate account for use by a U. N. technical assistance board for maintenance and development of the canal. One report said this would be 25 per cent.

* * *

ANOTHER percentage to be placed in escrow for settlement of compensation claims by stockholders of the old Suez Canal Co. One source estimated this amount at 5 per cent.

Reaffirmation of the 1888 Constantinople Convention to guarantee freedom of shipping through the canal.

Hammarskjold was said to feel the 1888 convention guaranteeing unhindered access to the canal adequate in its present form, although it might be revised later.

The informants said any country believing the convention was not being carried out could appeal to the World Court.

While the convention calls for freedom of shipping for all nations, Egypt has barred Israeli ships on grounds that a technical state of war still exists between Egypt and Israel. The convention provides for refusal of passage to "enemy" ships.

Hammarskjold was said to expect that Egypt ultimately will accept some kind of canal users' group to discuss toll rates, canal improvements and similar problems, but the present plan was reported to have left that point unanswered.

Reports from Tucker's Town, Bermuda, where Canadian officials have been getting a rundown on last week's talks between President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Macmillan, said it appeared the United States and Britain were resigned to modifying their demands for international control of the canal.

The tug Edgar Bonnet, last barrier in the Suez Canal to passage of ships of up to 20,000 tons, was lifted from the channel bottom this week and was to be towed out of the way today. Its removal will leave only an official Egyptian OK necessary for resumption of three fourths or more of normal canal traffic.

Selecting and buying Food for the family is one of the most important jobs that confronts Mrs. Homemaker, even though the man of the house is also involved in helping to make food buying decisions. (He also often shops.)

Americans have more money to spend on food than ever before and may not be so interested in reducing food costs. However, there are many other factors to consider when shopping for food. Some of the major factors, in addition to cost, that should be considered, include family preferences, nutritive value, facilities for preparation and storage. Some people may place more emphasis on one factor than another. Satisfaction is the final test of the foodshoppers ability to select foods that please family tastes, provide good nutrition, and stay within the family budget.

According to recent statistics from Consumer Specialists from Ohio State University, it is possible to have an adequate diet for as little as $5.50 per person per week. For an additional $1.25, a moderate cost, adequate diet is possible.

* * *

Every time one spends a dollar for groceries, eight cents of it will go to pay for the transportation of the items—or item! The U. S. Department of Agriculture states that on the average this is what it costs to transport all kinds of food to all parts of the country from the places where it was grown.

The cost of hauling food to market has been increasing in recent years at a faster rate than the retail cost of food. Compared to eight cents today, transportation costs in 1950 were 6.9 cents out of each dollar spent for food at retail stores; in 1945 it was only 5.5 cents.

Did you know that 15 percent of fluid milk is consumed with cereals and that about 10 quarts of milk are required to make one pound of butter or one quart of ice cream?

Statistics reveal that in an average year over three and two-thirds billion quarts of milk are eaten with breakfast cereals. This amounts to almost 95 quarts of milk per family per year.

Did you eat 3.5 pound of potato chips last year? The retail sale of potato chips in 1956 was more than double that of 1950. On a per capita basis, Americans ate about 3.5 pounds of chips last year. About 15 percent of all potatoes used were eaten as chips.

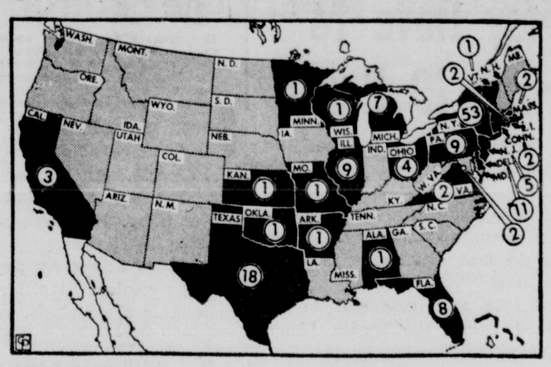

* * *

Do you plan on eating the per capita estimate of 60 hot dogs in 1957. This is the first time that consumption has gone over the billion-pound mark. It has been predicted that we will consume about 1,110,000,000 pounds of "franks" in 1957.

Are you the typical Average American who consumed the contents of 237 metal cans in 1956? According to a magazine article, the can has made more progress in the last 20 years than it had in all its previous history of 127 years.

There are more than 500 sizes and styles, covering such products as meats, shortening, beer, carbonated beverages, syrups, coffee, spices, tobacco, toiletries, surgical supplies, household products, paints, etc. One plant can turn out as many as 10,000,000 cans a day and has manufactured over a billion cans in a year.

It is very evident that the shopper, as he or she plans to need and want list and does the follow-up purchasing and cooking, cooperates in making a lot of large and interesting statistics

THE MAP shows the number of persons in various states with $1,000,000 or more income in 1956. New York leads with 53, Texas is second with 18 and Delaware ranks third with 11. The poor folks in the shaded states, alas, are without million-dollar incomes.

Legislature Plans Study Of Famous 'Malabar Farm'

By ART PARKS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Legislature has decided to give full-dress study to possible state purchase of famed Malabar Farm in Richland County.

The home of the late author and conservationist Louis Bromfield is up for sale. Under a House-approved resolution adopted Tuesday by the Senate, a legislative committee must recommend five weeks from today whether the state should buy the farm. The price is $145,000.

If it buys the once-rundown farm restored by modern conservation techniques, the state might continue its use as an experimental farm. It might also use it as a site for a proposed eastern Ohio State university.

The Senate decision to support the Malabar purchase study came during a marathon three-hour floor session. Debate also waxed hot and heavy over bills to cut the license fees for transit buses and to authorize construction and provide for the administration of a big Guernsey County lake in the Salt Fork watershed. Both bills passed overwhelmingly.

Meanwhile, the House was passing and sending to the Senate a bill to create a fifth post of deputy highway director. The new deputy would be in charge of right-of-way purchases. The bill is backed by the administration of Gov. C. William O'Neill.

The House also sent to the Senate bills providing a general revision of Ohio drainage laws and permitting in-service training for Ohio Highway Department technicians.

The House Industry and Labor Committee appeared ready to send to a subcommittee a bill which would authorize Supplemental Unemployment Compensation (SUB) payments in Ohio. The action probably will be taken tonight. The committee heard eight witnesses oppose the bill Tuesday.

The Senate Code Revision Committee recommended passage of a bill to transfer the State Bureau of Criminal Investigation and Identification to the attorney general's office.

The Senate Highways Committee recommended passage of a bill authorizing the state highway director or local authorities to set a minimum speed of 30 m.p.h. on limited - access superhighways if their studies show slow drivers "impede the normal and reasonable flow of traffic."

Sen. William H. Deddens, Cincinnati Republican, was a central figure in both of Tuesday's big debates in the Senate. He won one and lost one.

He was successful in pushing through, 26-6, a House-approved bill to cut license fees on public transit buses owned by private firms from a top of $360 to a flat $10. The latter fee is paid by owners of private passenger autos.

Senate Minority Leader Joseph W. Bartunek (D-Cuyahoga), tried, but failed, to amend the bill to set the bus license fees at $150 a year.

Deddens declared the easing of the tax burden on transit companies would at least delay the necessity for public ownership and operation of mass transit systems. Private transit firms now are in dire financial shape, he told the Senate.

Deddens lost a one-man fight to defeat a bill to authorize construction of a dam and 2,900-acre lake near Cambridge — an estimated three million dollar project proposed by Sen. David McK. Ferguson (R-Cambridge).

Ferguson told the Senate the proposed lake would furnish 35 to 40 million gallons of water a day and that there is "a great industry" waiting for the water. He did not identify the industry which is considering a move to Cambridge.

At the showdown, Deddens carried only three other senators with him as the Senate passed the bill, 26-4, and sent it to the House.

Latest Craze In Hollywood Is Bouncing To Calypso Beat

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Hollywood is bouncing to a calypso beat.

The film companies have registered no less than 30 titles containing the word calypso, including the now-shooting dandy, "Bop Girl Goes Calypso." Don't be surprised if even Ma and Pa Kettle go calypso, and Tarzan and the Bowery Boys as well.

The producers want to cash in on the calypso craze, but they'll have to go some to catch up with Sam Katsman. The film-making marvel finished "Calypso Heat Wave" on Monday and plans to have it playing in New York within four weeks. At that, he claims to be a little slow.

"This calypso craze sneaked up on me," he remarked. "I should have seen it coming much sooner."

The cigar-chewing Katzman is a much richer man for having recognized another musical craze. Last year he strung together "Rock Around the Clock" for $385,000. Aided by riots and bannings, the film is adding up a four million dollar gross.

He followed this with "Don't Knock the Rock" at $365,000. "If it did half the business of the first picture, I'd consider myself lucky," he remarked, "but it's doing 75 per cent!"

Katzman, who comes from a musical family, keeps his well-tuned ear to the ground. He tours the country twice yearly assessing public tastes, and prowls the musical joints. He said that his 19-year-old son is perhaps the barometer of juvenile tastes. "Whatever he goes for, I look into," Katzman said.

The producer's speed with "Calypso Heat Wave" is not merely to beat the opposition.

"I want to get the picture out in a hurry because this calypso craze won't last long," he remarked. "The kids like it now, but it will blow over. They like something with a beat, something they can dance to—and calypso ain't it."

Katzman is one of those characters who help make Hollywood an interesting place. He's a hep, glib-talking dynamo who knows what movie-goers want and gives it to them.

"The movie audience of today is from the ages of 13 to 24," he observed. "You cater to them and you're in business."

What does this youthful audience want? Pop music, science fiction, action.

"I'm not interested in problems," the producer said, "except the problems of young people. I expect to do a couple of pictures along that line, not about juvenile delinquents, but normal kids who run into problems."

War Scares On Wane, Vacationists Eye Trips To Europe

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — More Americans than ever are expected to seek fun and culture overseas this year—and to spend more money in the pursuit. All of the big three tourist outlets—Europe, Far East and Latin America—are in on the boom.

In the first two months of the year this wasn't so for Europe. Bookings were trailing last year by as much as 20 per cent, travel agencies, airlines and steamship companies report. Touring ardor was cooled by fears of war and of gasoline and other shortages. As a byproduct travel to Latin America and the Far East took a sudden spurt.

Then sentiment about Europe changed sharply. The war scare died down. Gasoline rationing all but disappeared. Where it survives, tourists get special rations.

Rush for reservations in the last month leads transportation firms to predict overseas travel will be up around 10 per cent. Both airlines and surface lines are adding equipment to handle the peak summer rush.

"The dollar shortage in Europe is so pressing this year," American Express president Ralph T. Reed says, "that special efforts are being made to keep the American tourist comfortable and happy.

"The American traveler is assured of ample supplies of gasoline across Western Europe, including Great Britain and France where rationing for local nationals is in force. Car rentals continue as usual. Hotel accommodations are generally better than in 1956. Prices in most European countries may be slightly higher than last year."

The Pacific Travel Area Assn., covering 18 countries, says advance bookings indicate a continuing rise in travel to the Orient. Americans spent about 45 million dollars on this last year, up about 35 per cent over 1955.

George Killion, president of the American President Lines which has a program for 24 new vessels over the next 20 years, says reservations are up 25 per cent over last year.

Randolph Sevier, Matson Navigation Co. president, says new ships on Pacific routes will give the Pacific a chance to rival the Atlantic.

Travel to South America should be up 25 per cent this year, American Express predicts. Both surface and air lines are booking more tours.

One-Time Tammany Boss Dies At 80

LONG BEACH, N. Y. (AP)—James J. Hines, 80, onetime power in Manhattan's Tammany Hall who went to prison in 1940, died in Long Beach Memorial Hospital today of a kidney ailment.

The veteran political leader broke with Tammany to support Franklin D. Roosevelt for the presidential nomination at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago in 1932. Tammany had been solid for Al Smith.

But in 1939 Hines was convicted on charges of conspiring to protect policy rackets in the city. He served 3 years and 11 months in Sing Sing Prison.

Ashtabula Plans Report To O'Neill

COLUMBUS (AP)—Calvin W. Hutchins, Ashtabula County prosecutor, has promised to submit to Gov. C. William O'Neill a complete record of all criminal cases handled by his office since 1953.

Hutchins, in a 50-minute talk with O'Neill Tuesday, said he will have the report ready in about two weeks. O'Neill talked with Hutchins after newspaper criticism was directed at Hutchins' handling of several criminal cases.

2 Cities Oppose Gas Rate Boosts

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Utilities Commission of Ohio now has two hearings underway involving proposed increases in gas rates in two of the state's cities.

Monday, hearings opened in a rate dispute between Findlay and the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. Tuesday, separate hearings got underway in a similar battle between Dayton and the Dayton Power and Light Co.

Liquor Buyers May Have To Have ID Cards

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Sen. Ross Pepple, Lima Republican, wants Ohioans who buy liquor to carry identification cards. He told a Senate committee Tuesday he is "after the man who abuses the right to drink."

Pepple was supported in his stand before the Senate Liquor Committee Tuesday by the Rev. Lewis Berger, superintendent of the Temperance League of Ohio, who argued such a law would "help to solve the problem of drunk driving as well as drunkenness."

"This bill," Pepple said, "is an effort to make a man appreciate the right to drink is not an inherent right but a licensed right. The state licenses the liquor business in Ohio."

The bill would require the holder's picture on the ID card. Liquor could not be purchased without it. The card could be revoked upon the holder's conviction for drunk driving, intoxication twice in a year or five times in five years or if the holder is considered an habitual drunkard.

"Certainly the man who abuses the privilege of drinking ought to lose this right," Pepple said. "The only thing that scares an auto driver who drinks too much is the threat of losing his driver's license. This bill would act in a similar manner for those who abuse the privilege of drinking liquor."

Letter To The Editor

The Circleville Herald encourages letters to the editor on pertinent subjects of local interest. However unsigned letters will be disregarded. Nom de plume will be used if requested.

EDITOR, THE HERALD

Just a little while ago two small girls, 8 or 10, were at our back door. The one girl didn't even have on shoes. They were both so cold they looked blue.

They were asking for any old clothing we might have. My wife had some in a box ready, as they have been here several times before.

I feel that these children should be taken away from their parents and put in the Children's home. There they will at least have a chance for a place to sleep and eat.

I know that there are probably many more such cases in Circleville and I feel the same about them. I know that the tax payers would then become responsible for them, but, they would have a chance in the home to start life right and become useful citizens.

If they are left to continue the way they are going now, we will be lucky if they are not still burden on the tax payer even 20 or 30 years hence.

I feel the parents are guilty of neglect and should be punished.

We talk of missionarys for China, India, etc. I feel we had better start right here in Circleville.

Lowery Lane and Bean Town are as bad as any slums you will find anywhere.

I don't know the answer, but I do know it should be looked into by acommittee, and some positive action taken.

Legislature Plans Study Of Famous 'Malabar Farm'

By ART PARKS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Legislature has decided to give full-dress study to possible state purchase of famed Malabar Farm in Richland County.

The home of the late author and conservationist Louis Bromfield is up for sale. Under a House-approved resolution adopted Tuesday by the Senate, a legislative committee must recommend five weeks from today whether the state should buy the farm. The price is $145,000.

If it buys the once-rundown farm restored by modern conservation techniques, the state might continue its use as an experimental farm. It might also use it as a site for a proposed eastern Ohio State university.

The Senate decision to support the Malabar purchase study came during a marathon three-hour floor session. Debate also waxed hot and heavy over bills to cut the license fees for transit buses and to authorize construction and provide for the administration of a big Guernsey County lake in the Salt Fork watershed. Both bills passed overwhelmingly.

Meanwhile, the House was passing and sending to the Senate a bill to create a fifth post of deputy highway director. The new deputy would be in charge of right-of-way purchases. The bill is backed by the administration of Gov. C. William O'Neill.

The House also sent to the Senate bills providing a general revision of Ohio drainage laws and permitting in-service training for Ohio Highway Department technicians.

The House Industry and Labor Committee appeared ready to send to a subcommittee a bill which would authorize Supplemental Unemployment Compensation (SUB) payments in Ohio. The action probably will be taken tonight. The committee heard eight witnesses oppose the bill Tuesday.

The Senate Code Revision Committee recommended passage of a bill to transfer the State Bureau of Criminal Investigation and Identification to the attorney general's office.

The Senate Highways Committee recommended passage of a bill authorizing the state highway director or local authorities to set a minimum speed of 30 m.p.h. on limited - access superhighways if their studies show slow drivers "impede the normal and reasonable flow of traffic."

Sen. William H. Deddens, Cincinnati Republican, was a central figure in both of Tuesday's big debates in the Senate. He won one and lost one.

He was successful in pushing through, 26-6, a House-approved bill to cut license fees on public transit buses owned by private firms from a top of $360 to a flat $10. The latter fee is paid by owners of private passenger autos.

Senate Minority Leader Joseph W. Bartunek (D-Cuyahoga), tried, but failed, to amend the bill to set the bus license fees at $150 a year.

Deddens declared the easing of the tax burden on transit companies would at least delay the necessity for public ownership and operation of mass transit systems. Private transit firms now are in dire financial shape, he told the Senate.

Deddens lost a one-man fight to defeat a bill to authorize construction of a dam and 2,900-acre lake near Cambridge — an estimated three million dollar project proposed by Sen. David McK. Ferguson (R-Cambridge).

Ferguson told the Senate the proposed lake would furnish 35 to 40 million gallons of water a day and that there is "a great industry" waiting for the water. He did not identify the industry which is considering a move to Cambridge.

At the showdown, Deddens carried only three other senators with him as the Senate passed the bill, 26-4, and sent it to the House.

Politicans Fouling Diplomacy?

Being an Ambassador Costs Big Sums of Personal Cash

(Editor's Note: It costs money to be a U. S. ambassador, as a result many qualified men never make the grade. This country's ambassadorial system is explored in this second of three articles on the department of state.)

By BEM PRICE
AP Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The ambassador is the key man in the implementation of United States policies overseas.

He is the President's personal representative in the country to which he is assigned and thus the kingpin of all American activities there.

During this year President Eisenhower will appoint about 30 new ambassadors. If the appointments run true to form, the so-called plus posts—London, Paris, Madrid, Rome, Bonn, Mexico City and New Delhi—will be filled by what the department calls "noncareer diplomats."

To be more exact these appointments will be political rewards and the jobs will be filled by men with substantial private means.

Traditionally one-third of the nation's ambassadorial posts are occupied by noncareer people.

The new ambassadors to Paris and London already have been named.

John Hay Whitney, an American grown aristocrat with a personal fortune estimated at between 60 and 80 million dollars, has gone to London. He is one of Eisenhower's golf and bridge cronies and he also helped raise funds for the 1956 campaign.

To Paris, the President appointed Amory Houghton, chairman of the board of the Corning Glass Works. Houghton was a heavy tributor to the Eisenhower campaign.

This is not to say that the sole qualifications for noncareer diplomats are wealth and party allegiance. In these days intelligence is sought, too.

This U. S. political system of picking ambassadors has turned up some really top flight men, one of whom was Whitney's grandfather, John Hay. By the same token it has produced some real duds.

Those who receive the plush jobs can expect to spend between $30,000 and $100,000 a year out of their own pockets for entertainment.

An ambassador also can be named from the ranks of the professional diplomats. The career man reaches the top after 20 or 30 years of service, during which he has been under annual examination as to his qualifications. Usually the professional is confined by lack of private means to the less expensive posts and thus the smaller nations.

Periodically, someone in Washington tries fruitlessly to change this system.

In this session of Congress, Montana's Sen. Mike Mansfield is saying that the U. S. government can afford nothing less than the best ambassadors available and that it should pay for what it gets.

Mansfield has drafted an amendment to the State Department's appropriation under which the government would increase ambassadorial living expenses to the point where any man, regardless of private finances, can fill the top posts.

How do we keep political appointees from fouling up the diplomatic works?

The answer lies in the structure of the department. The No. 2. man in every embassy is a career diplomat. He is the adviser and the technician.

Local Printer Honored For Library Files

A small Indiana library has a detailed record of its community's activities during the years immediately prior to World War I—thanks to a Circleville businessman.

The library is at Tipton. The Circleville man is G. Guy Campbell, proprietor of Circle Press here.

Campbell's contribution to the Tipton County Library consists of the bound files of the Kempton Courier, a weekly newspaper Campbell published in the Tiptin County town frm Nov. 8, 1907, to April 10, 1914.

In reporting that the library had received the files from Campbell, a Tipton spokesman reported that the Courier was a handset paper, six to eight pages, put out by a "perfectionist printer of the old school."

* * *

FROM Kempton, Campbell moved to Indianapolis and from there to Brownsburg, Ind. The weekly newspaper there is still in the Campbell name, being owned now by the Circleville master printer's son, Robert. Another son, Don, is business editor of the Indianapolis Star.

The elder Campbell has been in business in Circleville since 1936, still considered by many to be a "perfectionist printer of the old school."

Man, 51, Locked In Rail Boxcar

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — A 51-year-old man who climbed into a box car at Peoria, Ill., Sunday morning was released today in the suburban Butler rail yards—weak, thirsty and suffering from exposure, but alive.

Ermon Westerfield of Danville, Ky., who said he last had been employed by the Salvation Army at Peoria, said he had decided to go to Chicago to look for work.

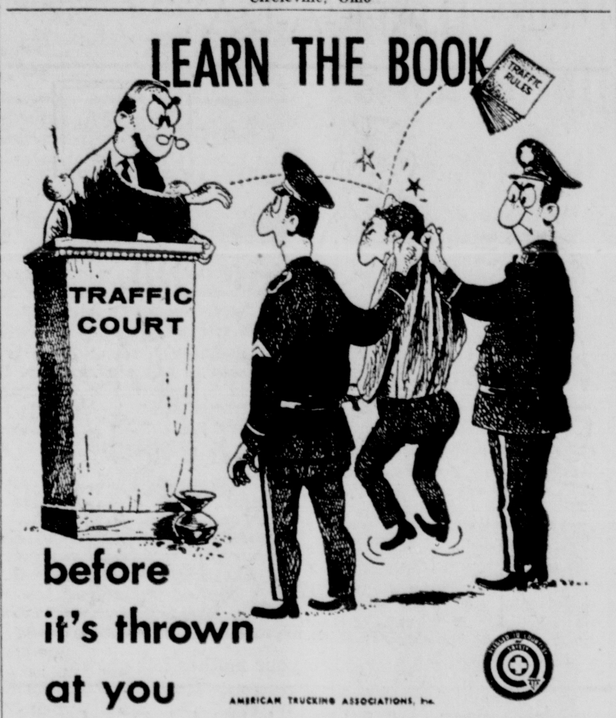

But a few minutes after he climbed into the empty car in the Peoria yards, he said, someone slammed and locked the door.

Defiance Chamber Names Secretary

DEFIANCE (AP) — The Defiance Chamber of Commerce has announced the appointment of Walton P. Gillespie of Bellaire as its new executive secretary.

In April, Gillespie, 50, will succeed Arnold E. Arnold, who resigned recently to enter private industry.

Gillespie has been executive secretary of the Bellaire Board of Trade since 1954.

Judge Of Municipal Court Joins In Appeal For 'Defense Driving'

"Be a 'plus' driver. Offset the other fellow's blunders by your defensive tactics"

This advice was given to motorists today by Judge Sterling Lamb of Circleville city court as he urged them to cooperate fully with the defensive driving program of the Pickaway County Traffic Safety Committee and the National Safety Council.

This program is part of the "Back the Attack on Traffic Accidents" campaign designed to cut down the 1957 traffic toll. The Spring phase of "Back the Attack" places emphasis on the responsibility of the driver for his own and others' safety.

"Many of the cases that come before me concern accidents that need never have happened," Judge Lamb said. "If the 'innocent' party in the accident had foreseen the danger in time, had known what to do, and had done it quickly, there might not have been an accident."

* * *

JUDGE LAMB pointed out that the driver's responsibility goes further than driving safely himself, knowing and obeying traffic laws, keeping his car in good mechanical condition, and driving only when he is in good physical condition.

"A driver might do all these things and still be involved in an accident through the unsafe behavior of a pedestrian or another driver," Judge Lamb said. "The 'plus' driver goes a step further. He is constantly alert to the accident potential of pedestrians, other drivers, and traffic and weather conditions. He is aware of the types of hazards they may suddenly present and is prepared to combat them.

Judge Lamb says a motorist is a "plus" driver if he:

Drives at a safe speed so that he can stop quickly when necessary.

Obeys all traffic laws and regulations.

Scans the road ahead carefully.

Glances frequently in the rearview mirror.

Keeps a safe distance from the car ahead.

Yields the right of way readily.

Keeps a constant look out for pedestrians.

Model Citizen Back In Ohio Prison

LONDON, Ohio (AP)—Aaron Gordon, 54, an escaped murderer, is back in London Prison Farm today after living in Houston as a model citizen 10 years.

Prison authorities said Gordon escaped in 1947. He served 16 years of a life sentence for the 1931 slaying of a woman friend of his first wife. The victim surprised him while he was burglarizing her apartment, police said. Gordon would have been eligible for parole six years ago.

FBI agents arrested Gordon in Houston March 15. He had no police record there and his wife, whom he married in Houston, knew nothing of his time in prison.

Dining Cars, Past And Present

Eastern railroads, led by the Pennsylvania and New York Central, are petitioning the Interstate Commerce Commission for the right to drop their de luxe dining car service, unless they are permitted to raise first class fares.

They present impressive statistics to show that the traditional dining car no longer comes close to paying its own way even though prices are so high as to make the frugal gasp. It takes no expert in accountancy to agree with their figures.

Although a good roast beef dinner costs $6.25—without extras such as a shrimp cocktail—the dining car turnover is limited to the number of passengers aboard the train. The relatively small turnover makes for loss, especially when some passengers still prefer to bring along their own lunch in a shoe box, or patronize the mobile canteens which many lines have installed.

The railroads' plight, however, will not prevent many an older traveler from regretting the loss of dining cars, should they be destined for limbo. The day is not so very distant when parents would take the whole family on a short train trip simply for the delights of gracious living which the dining car afforded.

It would be something to talk about for weeks. The excellence of the cuisine and the service; the texture of the fine linens and the weight of the silver tableware; the elaborate woodwork and splendid draperies, and perhaps the embarrassment of not knowing which of the six knives, forks and spoons to use for the six different courses.

Added to all this was the novelty of dining in regal dignity while watching an ever-changing landscape slide by. Coffee shop bars, or precooked meals served tray style, may satisfy the pangs of hunger but they can never be a substitute for the old-time eating adventures.

End Of Era

When International Business Machines stock was split two-for-one and the shares dropped $14 on the New York Stock Exchange the next day, the events marked the end of an era on the big board. The era of stock splits that brought an immediate paper profit to shareholders, that is.

The theory behind stock splits is that there is a greater market for stocks selling for $10 a share than for issues selling for $100, and that a $100 stock split 10-for-1 will immediately sell for more than $10, to the enrichment of the owners. The theory is sound, especially in a period of rising stock market prices.

But such splits have been becoming less numerous, and those interested in IBM were disappointed that the split was not 10-for-1 or 20-for-1 as had been widely predicted. The stock sells for more than $500 a share.

Kiss A Pretty Girl, And Bingo!

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Did you know that this happens to you when you kiss a pretty girl:

The pituitary gland begins secreting like crazy, the adrenal glands are stimulated, the blood pressure rises, some white blood cells break down, the pulse quickens, you breathe faster, the circulation increases and your heart action speeds up. If there is no pretty girl handy, you can get the same results by running around the block.

Did you know:

That Minnesota has more water within its borders than any other state in the Union.

That one out of every three million persons has handwriting so close to your own that only an expert could tell the difference.

That your car contains about 100 pounds of rubber, not including the tires.

That the 100-million-year - old Meramec Caverns at Stanton, Mo., has installed a chapel to accommodate tourists who want to be wed underground.

That you have roughly a pint of blood for every 12 pounds of body weight, that is, if your weight is normal.

That phrase "passing the buck," meaning to shift responsibility, originated in cardrooms . . . from the custom of placing a counter or marker, called a "buck," before a player to remind him it's his turn to deal.

That if you like living in towns with odd names you might consider moving to Bumble Bee (Ariz.) or Hygiene (Colo.) or Heck (N. M.) or Bourbon (Ind.) or Frostproof (Fla.) or Social Circle (Ga.) or Cannon Ball (N. D.)

That chocolate, vanilla and strawberry are still the three most popular kinds of ice cream, but among the 200 flavors available are asparagus, tomato sherbet and (ugh!) spinach.

That the 75,000 miniature railroad fans in America spend $15 million a year on their hobby. The average fan is 33 years old, earns $6,222 a year, has his own home, a wife and three kids, and spends 6.8 hours a week (and $2.88) maintaining his toy.

That the American tourist industry is the greatest on earth, yet a recent survey showed 75 percent of U. S. adults never have made a journey by air, 50 per cent haven't made a trip of more than 100 miles by bus and 30 per cent have never traveled by train.

That this country may not be going to the bow-wows, but it now has one dog for every seven persons. And Rover's food bill now comes to about $333,333,333 a year, not counting the scraps he gets from the table.

That the White House appears on only one U. S. bill—the double sawbuck.

Teenagers Fight For Elvis, etc.

By George Sokolsky

Since I got off my punditic horse to discuss the affairs of the young, they have been going for me good and proper, telling me of my ignorance of things important and how a square cannot be expected to understand anything.

I am, however, pleased to know that so many of these teenagers read the newspapers because after all, they will some day grow up and get married and even become old. And their kids will regard them as either squares or morons, depending upon what happens to them during the interval.

One young lady of 17 does not think I am old yet, that is, if I am not over 50. This girl must have gone to a progressive school because she writes:

". . .The schools nowadays teach the children to express themselves. And they sure do. They tell their parents what to do and sometimes where to go. And to be truthful about it the teachers don't know much more about teaching school than their pupils."

Another young lady of 14 writes that she considers herself fairly intelligent. But she has this to say about her favorite, Elvis:

". . .I am not trying to prove that Elvis is the greatest thing the world has ever known but I am saying that he is by far one of the greatest entertainment personalities ever and the greatest inspiration young people have had to follow in a long while. What I am saying is that when the history of our century is written there should be a nice fat chapter or two devoted to the great Mr. Elvis Presley. . ."

It is too bad that the President of the United States is not the source of such devotion and admiration amounting almost to adoration. Of a child of 14, one expects a romantic view of life, a glorification of an heroic personality. But not this child. She is practical. She says:

"I will tell you—Elvis is an inspiration to strive for a high goal. He shows America's youth that nothing is impossible. What could seem more impossible than a poor Tennessee truck driver becoming a millionaire within one year ?These teenagers who love Elvis feel that whatever trade they plan to enter they can reach the top of the heap. Therefore they do not strive to be just a minimum salaried employee, they strive to be a highly paid employer."

There is a materialistic interpretation of human development. Way back in the days when Elbert Hubbard was writing his "Little Journeys," such men as Andrew Carnegie, George Westinghouse, J. P. Morgan and other rough and ready souls were extolled for their ability to earn money by concentration on invention and organization. Horatio Alger wrote his guide-books to success, the easiest road to it being to marry the boss's daughter.

However, it is something new in the story of man's progress that a yodler becomes an inspration because he, having been a truck driver, became a millionaire in one year. I bleieve that even Al Capone did not do it so quickly.

This young lady listened to Tchaikovsky and Mozart but felt "absolutely nothing." Of course, neither Tchaikovsky nor Mozart ever became millionaires. In fact, Mozart had a rather tough time financially. There were no recordings in those days and teenagers were seen but not heard.

I saw a letter to the editor about all this, in which the writer believes that one of the world's greatest anthropologists, Margaret Mead, and I are naive —"amazingly naive" — because we do not yet know "that teenagers conform not to their parents' morals, but to the morals of their own generation."

This is something that needs to be learned by the elders who do not understand why the world seems to be going backwards. For if civilization has any meaning at all, it must be that morality—the revealed law of God to man—is eternal, universal and changeless.

I do not know the age of this writer from Oradell, New Jersey, but I wonder if it ever occurred to her that such a codification of morality as the "Ten Commandments," is the symbol of man's progress upward from the tom-tom.

Forsooth, these children do fight for what they believe. But we oldsters need not retreat and leave the world to darkness

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

JACK BENNY says, "Danny Kaye and Bob Hope aren't the only comedians who get to meet the big shots when they're in London. True, I wasn't summoned to visit the royal family —but here's how close I got to the very top: I was invited to dinner at Number Nine Downing Street!"

A man approached the desk of a swanky hotel in London and asked, "Do you have special terms for commercial travelers?" The frock-coated "clark" regarded him coldly and retorted, "We certainly have, you —— —— bloomin' blighter! Buzz off!"

Unconscious Fears Said To Keep Many Single

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

SOME persons have an unconscious fear of marriage.

While to all outward appearances they seem to have valid reasons for not marrying, a number of single persons actually have an unrecognized marriage phobia.

Psychiatrist's View

This, at least, is the view of a leading psychiatrist, Dr. Jacob H. Friedman, director of the Neuropsychiatric Service of Fordham Hospital and chief of the Mental Hygiene Clinic at Lebanon Hospital.

Physical health, it seems, has little to do with it in most cases. Rather, unconscious motivating factors are frequently to blame.

Nine Reasons

Writing in a recent issue of the Journal of the Hillside Hospital, Glen Oaks, New York, Dr. Friedman reports that the nine most common female rationalizations for not marrying are:

Fear of pregnancy, fear of inheritance of mental illness, parental attachment, fear of infidelity of the future husband, guilt in relation to a childhood sexual activity.

Desire for a wealthy husband, fear of marital relations, fear that a husband will possess undesirable traits of father or brother, a feeling that being jilted by one man means that all men are no good.

Most common rationalizations for men not marrying include:

Marriage entails too much responsibility, marriage means loss of liberty, the feeling that being deceived by one woman means all women are no good, an aggressive feeling toward the mother with the resulting belief that "all women are like mothers."

Too Much of a Gamble

Marriage is too much a gamble as shown by the divorce rate, women are untrustworthy, married women are too demanding and want too much, fear of inheritance of mental illness.

Men also often set too high a standard in seeking a wife.

Sometimes these may be the real reasons why persons remain single. Sometimes there are other reasons. For a large number of unmarried persons, however, a psychiatrist may be of some help.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

R. F.: Is mucus in the bowels dangerous and what is the cure?

Answer: The presence of a small amount of mucus in the bowel movement, as a rule, is normal. Excessive mucus may indicate that there is inflammation or malfunction of the bowel.

Better consult a doctor if excessive mucus is present.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Within less than a week after the Bermuda conference — between President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Macmillan — Americans and British are disagreeing on what they agreed to.

If this keeps up, the Bermuda meeting will look like a farce which may have done more damage than it was intended to repair.

To the Republicans two of the dirtiest words in the language are "secret agreements." They made as much political hay as they could out of denouncing President Roosevelt's Yalta agreements with Stalin. The last thing they want wrapped around their necks is a charge that Eisenhower and Macmillan reached secret agreements.

When Eisenhower flew home Sunday, Macmillan and his party remained in Bermuda.

On Monday and again Tuesday American correspondents who also remained at Bermuda have written stories—based on information given them by the British — that Eisenhower and Macmillan reached accord on documents described variously as directives, agreements and protocols, more than 25 of them in writing.

Four times now in those two days the Eisenhower administration has denied there were any secret agreements.

The primary purpose of the Bermuda meeting was to mend the split — due to a loss of confidence — between the United States and Britain. The split occurred last fall when Britain, joining France and Israel, attacked Egypt.

The British did so without consulting this country, in whose handling of Egyptian President Nasser it had lost confidence. The British were for direct action. The Eisenhower administration wanted to go easy.

Before Eisenhower and Macmillan parted Sunday they issued a public statement on what they discussed and agreed to. It was full of trite opinions and showed the two men hadn't agreed on much of specific import.

After Eisenhower left, Macmillan held a press conference where he said he and Eisenhower had agreed on the policies the United States and Britain must take to obtain interim and long-term settlements in the Middle East.

The public statement had said no such thing. Tuesday at his news conference Secretary of State Dulles said there had been no agreements on the Middle East. Dulles also said there had been no written understandings not made public, except one.

He said there was a "procedural" understanding for "reviewing the intelligence arrangements which we have concerning alerts."

On Monday at his White House conference with congressional leaders — to tell them what had happened at Bermuda — Eisenhower reportedly said there had been no secret agreements.

His White House press secretary, James Hagerty, repeated that statement later Monday.

Tuesday again Hagerty said Eisenhower and Macmillan had made no secret agreements.

Soviets Reject Ike-Mac Proposal

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union, as expected has cold - shouldered the Eisenhower-Macmillan proposal for mutual observation of nuclear tests.

The two Western leaders at their Bermuda conference agreed they would invite foreign observers to their tests if the Soviet Union would do the same.

Russia, instead, called for immediate suspension of atomic and hydrogen bomb tests, either on a temporary or a permanent basis.

Further, the Soviet government urged that the whole question of continuing such tests be divorced from the wider disarmament negotiations now going on between the big powers in London.

Dining Cars, Past And Present

Eastern railroads, led by the Pennsylvania and New York Central, are petitioning the Interstate Commerce Commission for the right to drop their de luxe dining car service, unless they are permitted to raise first class fares.

They present impressive statistics to show that the traditional dining car no longer comes close to paying its own way even though prices are so high as to make the frugal gasp. It takes no expert in accountancy to agree with their figures.

Although a good roast beef dinner costs $6.25—without extras such as a shrimp cocktail—the dining car turnover is limited to the number of passengers aboard the train. The relatively small turnover makes for loss, especially when some passengers still prefer to bring along their own lunch in a shoe box, or patronize the mobile canteens which many lines have installed.

The railroads' plight, however, will not prevent many an older traveler from regretting the loss of dining cars, should they be destined for limbo. The day is not so very distant when parents would take the whole family on a short train trip simply for the delights of gracious living which the dining car afforded.

It would be something to talk about for weeks. The excellence of the cuisine and the service; the texture of the fine linens and the weight of the silver tableware; the elaborate woodwork and splendid draperies, and perhaps the embarrassment of not knowing which of the six knives, forks and spoons to use for the six different courses.

Added to all this was the novelty of dining in regal dignity while watching an ever-changing landscape slide by. Coffee shop bars, or precooked meals served tray style, may satisfy the pangs of hunger but they can never be a substitute for the old-time eating adventures.

End Of Era

When International Business Machines stock was split two-for-one and the shares dropped $14 on the New York Stock Exchange the next day, the events marked the end of an era on the big board. The era of stock splits that brought an immediate paper profit to shareholders, that is.

The theory behind stock splits is that there is a greater market for stocks selling for $10 a share than for issues selling for $100, and that a $100 stock split 10-for-1 will immediately sell for more than $10, to the enrichment of the owners. The theory is sound, especially in a period of rising stock market prices.

But such splits have been becoming less numerous, and those interested in IBM were disappointed that the split was not 10-for-1 or 20-for-1 as had been widely predicted. The stock sells for more than $500 a share.

Kiss A Pretty Girl, And Bingo!

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Did you know that this happens to you when you kiss a pretty girl:

The pituitary gland begins secreting like crazy, the adrenal glands are stimulated, the blood pressure rises, some white blood cells break down, the pulse quickens, you breathe faster, the circulation increases and your heart action speeds up. If there is no pretty girl handy, you can get the same results by running around the block.

Did you know:

That Minnesota has more water within its borders than any other state in the Union.

That one out of every three million persons has handwriting so close to your own that only an expert could tell the difference.

That your car contains about 100 pounds of rubber, not including the tires.

That the 100-million-year - old Meramec Caverns at Stanton, Mo., has installed a chapel to accommodate tourists who want to be wed underground.

That you have roughly a pint of blood for every 12 pounds of body weight, that is, if your weight is normal.

That phrase "passing the buck," meaning to shift responsibility, originated in cardrooms . . . from the custom of placing a counter or marker, called a "buck," before a player to remind him it's his turn to deal.

That if you like living in towns with odd names you might consider moving to Bumble Bee (Ariz.) or Hygiene (Colo.) or Heck (N. M.) or Bourbon (Ind.) or Frostproof (Fla.) or Social Circle (Ga.) or Cannon Ball (N. D.)

That chocolate, vanilla and strawberry are still the three most popular kinds of ice cream, but among the 200 flavors available are asparagus, tomato sherbet and (ugh!) spinach.

That the 75,000 miniature railroad fans in America spend $15 million a year on their hobby. The average fan is 33 years old, earns $6,222 a year, has his own home, a wife and three kids, and spends 6.8 hours a week (and $2.88) maintaining his toy.

That the American tourist industry is the greatest on earth, yet a recent survey showed 75 percent of U. S. adults never have made a journey by air, 50 per cent haven't made a trip of more than 100 miles by bus and 30 per cent have never traveled by train.

That this country may not be going to the bow-wows, but it now has one dog for every seven persons. And Rover's food bill now comes to about $333,333,333 a year, not counting the scraps he gets from the table.

That the White House appears on only one U. S. bill—the double sawbuck.

Teenagers Fight For Elvis, etc.

By George Sokolsky

Since I got off my punditic horse to discuss the affairs of the young, they have been going for me good and proper, telling me of my ignorance of things important and how a square cannot be expected to understand anything.

I am, however, pleased to know that so many of these teenagers read the newspapers because after all, they will some day grow up and get married and even become old. And their kids will regard them as either squares or morons, depending upon what happens to them during the interval.

One young lady of 17 does not think I am old yet, that is, if I am not over 50. This girl must have gone to a progressive school because she writes:

". . .The schools nowadays teach the children to express themselves. And they sure do. They tell their parents what to do and sometimes where to go. And to be truthful about it the teachers don't know much more about teaching school than their pupils."

Another young lady of 14 writes that she considers herself fairly intelligent. But she has this to say about her favorite, Elvis:

". . .I am not trying to prove that Elvis is the greatest thing the world has ever known but I am saying that he is by far one of the greatest entertainment personalities ever and the greatest inspiration young people have had to follow in a long while. What I am saying is that when the history of our century is written there should be a nice fat chapter or two devoted to the great Mr. Elvis Presley. . ."

It is too bad that the President of the United States is not the source of such devotion and admiration amounting almost to adoration. Of a child of 14, one expects a romantic view of life, a glorification of an heroic personality. But not this child. She is practical. She says:

"I will tell you—Elvis is an inspiration to strive for a high goal. He shows America's youth that nothing is impossible. What could seem more impossible than a poor Tennessee truck driver becoming a millionaire within one year ?These teenagers who love Elvis feel that whatever trade they plan to enter they can reach the top of the heap. Therefore they do not strive to be just a minimum salaried employee, they strive to be a highly paid employer."

There is a materialistic interpretation of human development. Way back in the days when Elbert Hubbard was writing his "Little Journeys," such men as Andrew Carnegie, George Westinghouse, J. P. Morgan and other rough and ready souls were extolled for their ability to earn money by concentration on invention and organization. Horatio Alger wrote his guide-books to success, the easiest road to it being to marry the boss's daughter.

However, it is something new in the story of man's progress that a yodler becomes an inspration because he, having been a truck driver, became a millionaire in one year. I bleieve that even Al Capone did not do it so quickly.

This young lady listened to Tchaikovsky and Mozart but felt "absolutely nothing." Of course, neither Tchaikovsky nor Mozart ever became millionaires. In fact, Mozart had a rather tough time financially. There were no recordings in those days and teenagers were seen but not heard.

I saw a letter to the editor about all this, in which the writer believes that one of the world's greatest anthropologists, Margaret Mead, and I are naive —"amazingly naive" — because we do not yet know "that teenagers conform not to their parents' morals, but to the morals of their own generation."

This is something that needs to be learned by the elders who do not understand why the world seems to be going backwards. For if civilization has any meaning at all, it must be that morality—the revealed law of God to man—is eternal, universal and changeless.

I do not know the age of this writer from Oradell, New Jersey, but I wonder if it ever occurred to her that such a codification of morality as the "Ten Commandments," is the symbol of man's progress upward from the tom-tom.

Forsooth, these children do fight for what they believe. But we oldsters need not retreat and leave the world to darkness

Physical health, it seems, has little to do with it in most cases. Rather, unconscious motivating factors are frequently to blame.

Nine Reasons

Writing in a recent issue of the Journal of the Hillside Hospital, Glen Oaks, New York, Dr. Friedman reports that the nine most common female rationalizations for not marrying are:

Fear of pregnancy, fear of inheritance of mental illness, parental attachment, fear of infidelity of the future husband, guilt in relation to a childhood sexual activity.

Desire for a wealthy husband, fear of marital relations, fear that a husband will possess undesirable traits of father or brother, a feeling that being jilted by one man means that all men are no good.

Most common rationalizations for men not marrying include:

Marriage entails too much responsibility, marriage means loss of liberty, the feeling that being deceived by one woman means all women are no good, an aggressive feeling toward the mother with the resulting belief that "all women are like mothers."

Too Much of a Gamble

Marriage is too much a gamble as shown by the divorce rate, women are untrustworthy, married women are too demanding and want too much, fear of inheritance of mental illness.

Men also often set too high a standard in seeking a wife.

Sometimes these may be the real reasons why persons remain single. Sometimes there are other reasons. For a large number of unmarried persons, however, a psychiatrist may be of some help.

Beautiful Hair Depends On Care

The usual talk is about beauty do's. Here are the don'ts that refer to hair care.

Do not use so much brilliantine on your hair that it looks greasy. Just a slight application is all that is needed to supply a pretty sheen.

Do not, if hair is shedding, neglect to remove any strands that may have collected in the bathtub or sink after a shampoo. The only place where hair looks attractive is on your head.

Do not make a rule to wash your hair once every week or once every two weeks. Instead, wash hair as soon as it shows soil, whether that is every two days or every two weeks.

Do not forget to add a drop or two of perfume to the last rinse water after you shampoo. It will leave locks pleasingly and lightly fragrant.

Do not neglect to brush hair nightly. It is an old beauty rule, but one that still holds. Thus far no other effective way of keeping hair bright and shining has been discovered.

Do not use the excuse of being too tired to set hair before you go to bed. The result will be straight, straggly locks that will spoil your appearance for the entire next day.

Do not, if you color hair, grow careless about salon appointments. Be sure you have touch-ups done as soon as they are needed. Nothing looks so miserable as dyed blonde hair that is black at the roots.

Do not borrow anyone else's comb or brush and do not lend yours. It is not a healthy practice.

Do not, if hair is white, let it get that yellow look. Use a blue-tone rinse to whiten the silvery strands.

IT'S the LAW

Following is another in a series of articles presented as a public service by the Pickaway County Bar Association. These articles deal only with hypothetical cases and are not intended to solve individual problems that need specific advice. Names, when used, are always fictitious.

Papa May Have To Pay If Junior Has Accident

Suppose a father permits his minor son to drive the family car. The son negligently drives the automobile and causes injury to the person or property or another. Is father liable for the consequences of his son's automobile accident?

The law is well settled in Ohio that a parent is not liable for the wrongs of his or her child, merely because of the parent-child relationship. The parent is liable for the wrongs of the child if the parent encourages the commission of the wrongful act. The parent is also liable if he gives direction to the act, or assumes responsibility for the actions of the child which result in the commission of the wrong.

If a parent employs his child to, let us say, deliver a load of groceries by automobile from his grocery store to his customer and the son goes through a red light and thereby causes an automobile collision, the chances are quite good that the parent would have to pay for the damage caused by his son.

He would be made to pay, not because it was his son who drove the automobile which caused the damage, but because the driver of the automobile was on the business of the employer and caused the damage while carrying out the orders of the employer. The fact that there was a parent-child relationship in existence in the case is not even to be considered in determining whether or not the employer is liable for the damage caused by his negligent employee.

* * *

THERE NEED not be an employer-employee relationship existing between the parent to be held liable for the child's wrongful acts; however. If there are sufficient facts to establish that the son was driving his parent's automobile, under the parent's direction and for the purposes of the parent then the courts would probably hold the parent liable for the negligent driving by the son. Here again, it is not the parent-child relationship which is controlling, but another and completely different body of law.

There is another fairly common situation in which a parent is made to pay for damage caused by the negligent driving of his child. If the child is an unskilled driver and the parent knows this fact but nevertheless permits the child to drive the automobile, and the child causes damage to someone through the negligent use of the automobile, the parent will have to pay for the damage.

This again is true, not because of the relationship between the owner and driver of the automobile, but because the parent is himself at fault in allowing an unskilled driver to drive the automobile.

This last fact situation imposes liability upon the parent because of the parent's having entrusted an automobile, which the law considers a dangerous instrument, to someone who is not sufficiently able to properly control it.

A parent or guardian of a minor under the age of 18 years who signs a child's application for driver's license may be held personally liable in damages for injuries caused by the negligent driving of an automobile by his child.

This is under the provision of an act of the Ohio Legislature.

* * *

UNDER THIS law, no minor under the age of 18 may obtain a driver's license without the signature of his parent, guardian or some other adult. When this adult signs the application for license, he makes himself liable for any damages which the minor may cause by his negligent driving unless the minor provides proof of financial responsibility by purchasing liability insurance or posting a cash bond or otherwise.

We see then, that a parent can be, and often is, held responsible for the wrongs of his or her child. However, the liability is not imposed on the parent simply because the damages were caused by his or her child. There must be additional facts in the picture before the courts will order the parents to pay for the child's wrongful acts.

Ohioans Oppose Water Diversion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. William Saxbe of Ohio and representatives of the Lake Carriers Assn., Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, Great Lakes Harbors Assn. and the Milwaukee Port District will testify against a water diversion bill here today.

The bill is the third legislative effort in recent years by Chicagoans to get more Lake Michigan water for sanitation.

A House Public Works subcommittee opened a hearing Tuesday on a bill to allow a temporary 1,000 cubic feet a second increase in the flow of water from the lake into the Illinois Waterway.

2 Ohio Highway Aides Suspended

COLUMBUS (AP)—George F. Raniol, a highway construction inspector in Division 5, Ravenna, has been suspended for 30 days.

The suspension, for disciplinary reasons, was announced by George J. Thormyer, acting director of the Ohio Department of Highways.

At the same time, Gordon Jeffery, director of the Department of Highway Safety, announced the suspension of Thomas M. Ward, a field inspector in the bureau of motor vehicles. Jeffrey said the 30-day suspension is for disciplinary reasons.

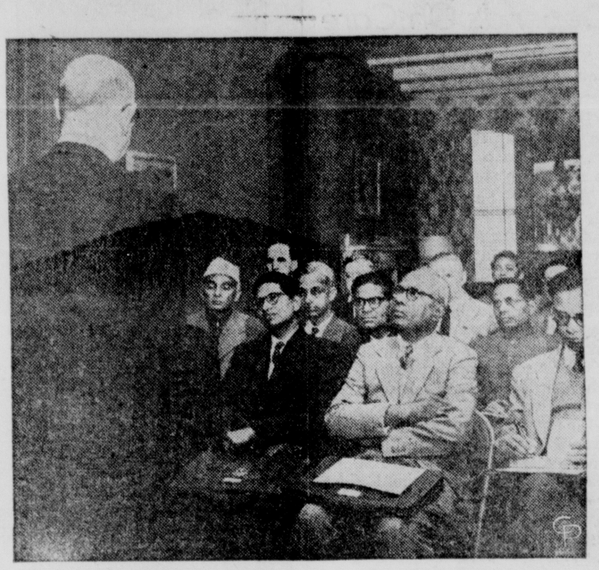

Parole Violator Tries Get Arrested

CINCINNATI (AP)—Police arrested John R. Laymire, 55, Tuesday after he heaved a brick and a bottle through a service station window and told officers "he wanted to get arrested."

But it was wasted energy. Laymire could have achieved his wish just by walking to the nearest police station. Officers said he's been sought since 1951 as a parole violator in a burglary case.

Foreign Visitors Get Acquainted With U. S. Ways, Whys, Wherefores At Capital's International Center

By RICHARD S. BLOCH

A group of foreign guests hear lecture on American institutions at Washington International center.

WASHINGTON — Has your community played host to Mr. Kim, Miss Solero, Mrs. Lopez or any of the other thousands of international visitors who have come to this country to study American "know how?"

You probably were intrigued by their ease in adjusting to our way of life. This is not by accident. These official visitors to the United States spent their first week in America at the Washington International center in the nation's capital.

Step into this impressive building, in the heart of Washington, and you will see people in all walks of life from many lands—governors and mayors, police chiefs and radio commentators, educators, engineers and agricultural officials. Some are wearing native costumes.

Here is a group of Korean high school principals decked out in high-waisted skirts and short, bolero-type jackets. There is a visitor from the Gold Coast of Africa resplendent with his robes and scarfs. He is talking to a woman from India dressed in a sari, made from beautiful silks and delicately embroidered with metallic thread.

* * *

THESE PEOPLE will study George Washington and the American Revolution, discuss American geography, population growth, institutions and customs. For many, the first taste of America seems a little strange and such questions as "How do we use the telephone?" or "Where can we buy food from our native land?" are not uncommon.

Their real feeling for life in the United States comes when they go out into the community and see school kids at work, congressmen debating over proposed bills, Supreme Court judges considering important points of law.

They see how we live when they are invited into individual homes for dinner by citizens in the area who are interested in the project. This, along with the other parts of the program, helps to break down erroneous impressions.

"Americans," said one foreign guest, "are not at all like I pictured them. I find that in large parts of the Occident, America is connected only to dollars, television sets, automobiles and refrigerators. Very little is known of the idealistic levels that the American lives in."

* * *

MANY VISITORS are surprised at the amount of time families spend together. They are impressed by the willingness of the husband to work in the kitchen and the garden and the fervor with which the American woman participates in community activities.

The Washington International center was established in 1950 by the American Council on Education under arrangement with the Department of State. Since that time more than 20,000 visitors from 94 countries and territories and all continents have attended the introductory program.

Most have come to this country under sponsorship of the International Education Exchange program, the International cooperation administration and the Civil Affairs division of the Department of the Army.

Communities in all parts of the country are assisting with the project through their own hospitality committees. Dr. Harry A. Wann, director of the Washington center, encourages local centers at every opportunity. He knows that through this type of program, as one foreign guest put it, "America has come into contact with many hearts from many countries . . ."

Accused Slayer To Be Wed Again

COLUMBUS (AP) — Jackie Ray Lawson, 27, will remarry his second wife today. The Columbus supermarket employe will then be taken to St. Louis to await grand jury action in the murder of Mrs. Credia M. Mallady.

Police say Lawson admitted strangling the 29-year-old divorcee in her St. Louis apartment Feb. 26, then driving the body 416 miles to Columbus where he dumped it in nearby Big Darby Creek.

Franklin County Sheriff Ralph J. Paul said that before Lawson is extradited, he will be permitted to remarry his 20-year-old second wife, Geraldeen. They have a 6-month-old son.

IT'S the LAW

Following is another in a series of articles presented as a public service by the Pickaway County Bar Association. These articles deal only with hypothetical cases and are not intended to solve individual problems that need specific advice. Names, when used, are always fictitious.

Papa May Have To Pay If Junior Has Accident

Suppose a father permits his minor son to drive the family car. The son negligently drives the automobile and causes injury to the person or property or another. Is father liable for the consequences of his son's automobile accident?

The law is well settled in Ohio that a parent is not liable for the wrongs of his or her child, merely because of the parent-child relationship. The parent is liable for the wrongs of the child if the parent encourages the commission of the wrongful act. The parent is also liable if he gives direction to the act, or assumes responsibility for the actions of the child which result in the commission of the wrong.

If a parent employs his child to, let us say, deliver a load of groceries by automobile from his grocery store to his customer and the son goes through a red light and thereby causes an automobile collision, the chances are quite good that the parent would have to pay for the damage caused by his son.

He would be made to pay, not because it was his son who drove the automobile which caused the damage, but because the driver of the automobile was on the business of the employer and caused the damage while carrying out the orders of the employer. The fact that there was a parent-child relationship in existence in the case is not even to be considered in determining whether or not the employer is liable for the damage caused by his negligent employee.

* * *

THERE NEED not be an employer-employee relationship existing between the parent to be held liable for the child's wrongful acts; however. If there are sufficient facts to establish that the son was driving his parent's automobile, under the parent's direction and for the purposes of the parent then the courts would probably hold the parent liable for the negligent driving by the son. Here again, it is not the parent-child relationship which is controlling, but another and completely different body of law.

There is another fairly common situation in which a parent is made to pay for damage caused by the negligent driving of his child. If the child is an unskilled driver and the parent knows this fact but nevertheless permits the child to drive the automobile, and the child causes damage to someone through the negligent use of the automobile, the parent will have to pay for the damage.

This again is true, not because of the relationship between the owner and driver of the automobile, but because the parent is himself at fault in allowing an unskilled driver to drive the automobile.

This last fact situation imposes liability upon the parent because of the parent's having entrusted an automobile, which the law considers a dangerous instrument, to someone who is not sufficiently able to properly control it.

A parent or guardian of a minor under the age of 18 years who signs a child's application for driver's license may be held personally liable in damages for injuries caused by the negligent driving of an automobile by his child.

This is under the provision of an act of the Ohio Legislature.

* * *

UNDER THIS law, no minor under the age of 18 may obtain a driver's license without the signature of his parent, guardian or some other adult. When this adult signs the application for license, he makes himself liable for any damages which the minor may cause by his negligent driving unless the minor provides proof of financial responsibility by purchasing liability insurance or posting a cash bond or otherwise.

We see then, that a parent can be, and often is, held responsible for the wrongs of his or her child. However, the liability is not imposed on the parent simply because the damages were caused by his or her child. There must be additional facts in the picture before the courts will order the parents to pay for the child's wrongful acts.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a middle-aged widow and, after a year of withering loneliness, I am considering second marriage—to a widower my age, a person I've known and been fond of since my teens.

We love each other, although we have our temperamental differences. But admittedly we both still deeply love the partners we have lost. We are prepared to keep their memories alive for ourselves and our respective children—without rancour, jealousy or odious comparisons.

However, a dear friend of mine, also a widow—with whom I've discussed remarriage intensively—says it is impossible to love two people at the same time: namely, my late husband and my prospective bridegroom. But I don't see why, if a man dies, his widow should cease to love him and forget the years of happiness they had.

I still love my late husband; but I can't live with a dream. I am alive, I am needed, and I need the man I am going to marry. It is all very puzzling and has made me feel guilty. Does the one love take away from the other?

I want to re-marry because there is no substitute for love, companionship, being needed, and making a real home life. Nothing else could suffice to keep me happy or even contented.

I went through a shattering period of guilt, doubt and even fear about marrying again, but I had decided finally. Yet I would reconsider, if I thought our mutual feeling were less than wholesome. Perhaps you can help unscramble my emotions, which suddenly are painfully mixed.

I am a realist and can face anything I can understand; so if this decision to marry is wrong, or premature, I'd like to know it.

F. J.

DEAR F. J.: Something in the situation is unwholesome; and perhaps it is the other widow's counsel.

Back of her alleged concern for emotional integrity—and her accent on conflict between love for the deceased and the prospective future mate—she may be jealous, unconsciously, of your agreeable opportunity to marry again.

In stating the impossibility, to her way of thinking, of loving both the dead-and-gone and the new spouse at the same time, she may be trying to talk you out of this chance, with the only plausible "scare" argument she can muster.

Inasmuch as you've known the widower - candidate since your teens, and always have been fond of him, I take it he has a sound social history, and can't be dismissed as a dubious character. So don't pay too much attention to the widow's hair-splitting negativism.

However, you and the widower are inventing trouble for yourselves, I think, in being so frankly emphatic with each other, about being faithful forever to your first mates—in the sense of keeping devotional memories alive.

Surely a remembering fidelity to a good spouse should be taken for granted, as an indelible part of one's being. We can't escape ourselves; and literally we are the sum of our experiences. But we don't wear all our experiences on our sleeve, and the more they've meant to us, the less do we make an open book of them. Rather, the everlasting good that has happened to us, via blessed relationships, registers in a general toning-up of the personality—in a richer capacity to love and be loved, worthily.

Individuals love because they are capable of love, not in "tribute" to persons loved, necessarily. Love is responsiveness to life. Love, in essence, is the action of God in us.

Lemuel Trotter Labeled As Sane

CINCINNATI (AP)—Lemuel Trotter, charged with slaying a policeman during a holdup on Sept. 5, 1955, has been declared legally sane by three psychiatrists.

He had pleaded innocent of the shooting of detective Walter Hart because of insanity.

"He is not mentally retarded, his intellectual status being that of low average level," the psychiatrist reported.

Trotter is scheduled to go on trial April 22.

Robert L. Jackson, 40, who allegedly participated in the holdup of the cafe at which Hart was slain, is under sentence of death. Willie Barnett, the third member of the holdup gang, was adjudged insane.

New York Central Walkout Averted

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—A threatened strike of nearly 6,000 New York Central Railroad employes has been called off. The National Mediation Board said it would arbitrate the dispute.

Members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen in the road's eastern division voted last week to walk off their jobs Thursday.

A union spokesman said the mediation board's announcement automatically stayed the strike.

ARE YOU TOO BUSY TO STAY ALIVE?

It's contradictory, but true! Many people are so busy living that they haven't the time to stay alive. Suddenly — they're dead! Enjoy life — of course — but within sensible limits. Work — but learn to relax and refresh your energy. Play — but don't become played out. And when you feel below par or are annoyed by recurring symptoms, take the time to consult your physician. You'll live longer if you're never too busy to stay alive.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a middle-aged widow and, after a year of withering loneliness, I am considering second marriage—to a widower my age, a person I've known and been fond of since my teens.

We love each other, although we have our temperamental differences. But admittedly we both still deeply love the partners we have lost. We are prepared to keep their memories alive for ourselves and our respective children—without rancour, jealousy or odious comparisons.

However, a dear friend of mine, also a widow—with whom I've discussed remarriage intensively—says it is impossible to love two people at the same time: namely, my late husband and my prospective bridegroom. But I don't see why, if a man dies, his widow should cease to love him and forget the years of happiness they had.

I still love my late husband; but I can't live with a dream. I am alive, I am needed, and I need the man I am going to marry. It is all very puzzling and has made me feel guilty. Does the one love take away from the other?

I want to re-marry because there is no substitute for love, companionship, being needed, and making a real home life. Nothing else could suffice to keep me happy or even contented.

I went through a shattering period of guilt, doubt and even fear about marrying again, but I had decided finally. Yet I would reconsider, if I thought our mutual feeling were less than wholesome. Perhaps you can help unscramble my emotions, which suddenly are painfully mixed.

I am a realist and can face anything I can understand; so if this decision to marry is wrong, or premature, I'd like to know it.

F. J.

DEAR F. J.: Something in the situation is unwholesome; and perhaps it is the other widow's counsel.

Back of her alleged concern for emotional integrity—and her accent on conflict between love for the deceased and the prospective future mate—she may be jealous, unconsciously, of your agreeable opportunity to marry again.

In stating the impossibility, to her way of thinking, of loving both the dead-and-gone and the new spouse at the same time, she may be trying to talk you out of this chance, with the only plausible "scare" argument she can muster.

Inasmuch as you've known the widower - candidate since your teens, and always have been fond of him, I take it he has a sound social history, and can't be dismissed as a dubious character. So don't pay too much attention to the widow's hair-splitting negativism.

However, you and the widower are inventing trouble for yourselves, I think, in being so frankly emphatic with each other, about being faithful forever to your first mates—in the sense of keeping devotional memories alive.

Surely a remembering fidelity to a good spouse should be taken for granted, as an indelible part of one's being. We can't escape ourselves; and literally we are the sum of our experiences. But we don't wear all our experiences on our sleeve, and the more they've meant to us, the less do we make an open book of them. Rather, the everlasting good that has happened to us, via blessed relationships, registers in a general toning-up of the personality—in a richer capacity to love and be loved, worthily.

Individuals love because they are capable of love, not in "tribute" to persons loved, necessarily. Love is responsiveness to life. Love, in essence, is the action of God in us.

M. H.

YOUR ATTIC MAY CONTAIN KEY TO GAPS IN HISTORY

Dr. Bennett Wall looks over one of the old scrapbooks he found in two-year quest among Kentucky's attics.

Lexington, Ky. — If you aren't careful, the next time you clean out your attic you may destroy valuable Circleville or Pickaway County records—or even part of your nation's history!

The word of caution in reference to the nation's history comes from a University of Kentucky historian, Dr. Bennett Wall, a man who should know. He has returned to his teaching duties after two years of full-time searching for historical source material.

His biggest problem during those two years, Wall says, was the average person's lack of regard for "those papers in the attic." Many of those papers, he points out, are irreplaceable letters, scrapbooks and records. Most of them, he fears, are destined for the trash pile, not the library.

"The firemen of this state could double the size of the University of Kentucky's library in a year," Wall quips after 68,000 miles of history hunting in Kentucky. "I could wager I've had a hundred people ask me, 'Why didn't you get here earlier? I just burned the papers you were looking for'."

* * *

EVEN CITY and county officials often fail to recognize the value of public records, Wall says, citing an eastern Kentucky county where records dating back 150 years were recently sold for scrap paper.

The trouble is, most people think only a letter by Presidents Abraham Lincoln or George Washington or some other historic figure is of historical value. Not so, says Wall. In fact, a farmer's detailed account of his flatboat trip down the Mississippi river to New Orleans may prove more valuable than many documents written by ex-Presidents or ex-governors, Wall declares.

Such accounts let the historian know what life was like for the average citizen of the period and offer specific details seldom found in state papers. The riverboat diary might prove invaluable to a novelist, too, Wall points out.

Not everything old is valuable, of course. A historian at a nearby college or an official of a local historical society will be glad to appraise any papers you might have, Wall advises.

Once people discover they have objects of historical importance, almost all of them are willing, even eager, to donate the articles to an institution which can make use of them, the professor found.

Sometimes people are too generous. Dr. Wall had to refuse a full-size log cabin offered by one Kentuckian; the university didn't have a suitable site for it.

* * *

OCCASIONALLY, if the papers pertain to the owner's family, there is an objection. "A great many people have the idea that historians are looking for scandals," Wall explains. "Actually, the average family scandal wouldn't rate a line in any history book, but something like the average wages paid to workers on the early turnpikes is of real interest to us."

There are a few people with a personal interest in seeing that certain historical gaps are permanent. One of these was an elderly Kentuckian who had taken a hand in some long-past vote buying.

"If you print what I've told you I don't know what I'll do; but I know what I would have done when I was younger—I would have shot you," he warned Dr. Wall.

The great mass of material remains uncollected simply because few people realize it has any value—and more of it is being destroyed every year.

There is a great opportunity to gather this material, Wall believes. "The question," he says a little sadly, "is: are we going to miss it for all eternity?"

His Record Shows Cops Too Plentiful

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—The day's question for the inquiring reporter-photographer was whether the city has enough policemen to cope with local crime.

"Every time you look around," said one man, "there's a cop sitting in a squad car or on a motorcycle or in a restaurant. It seems to me there's too many cops."

Police thought his picture in the paper looked familiar. It was.

Records showed that the name he used was an alias and that, since 1942, he had been arrested twice for assault, twice for being AWOL from the Army, twice for auto theft, once for breaking and entering and once for robbery.

Worker Crushed

COLUMBUS (AP)—Paul Daugherty, 47, Columbus, was fatally injured Tuesday when he stepped onto a heavy skid loaded with tools, toppling it from supporting forklift trucks. He was crushed.

ROUNDUP

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office located in the Post Office Building, S. Court St., Circleville. The office here is the link between district farmers and the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

Roadside marketing can be an excellent way for Ohio farmers to increase their incomes, two Ohio State University extension specialists told Farm and Home Week visitors.

R. L. Bere, extension economist in fruits and vegetables, and T. W. Leed, extension specialist in food merchandising, said careful planning of a roadside market is the first step to a successful operation. Producers should consider such factors as location, labor requirements, type and size of buildings and facilities, initial and operating costs, what products can be sold, expected volume and whether or not the operation fits the overall farm program.

Once a farmer decides to sell products through a roadside market, the specialist pointed out, there are many things which can help him increase sales—adequate parking facilities, an attractive and well-landscaped market, displays which are neat, fresh and of dependable quality; variety in size and type of package, fair prices, advertising and courtesy toward customers.

Operators of roadside markets are, in effect, operating a retail store, Bere and Leed explained. Many of the same principles that successful supermarkets use can be applied to roadside markets.

For a final test, the specialist said, roadside market operators can ask themselves these questions concerning their operations: "Would I stop Here?" and "Would I Come Back?"

Planting corn without first fitting the land may have some merit, but it is not a practice which Ohio agronomists are ready to recommend.

J. L. Haynes, Ohio Agricultural Experiment station agronomist, told Farm and Home Week visitors that planting corn behind the plow, or in lightly fitted soil, may have some advantages as an erosion control measure. In some cases yields also have been higher than in well-prepared seedbeds. The big problem, he said, is in getting good stands.

"With the methods we are now using," the agronomist explained, "getting a stand is a risk with track planting. So we are not recommending the practice at this time." (track planting refers to planting corn in tractor wheel tracks without preparing a seedbed.)

* * *

The development, within the next few years, of suitable field pelleting equipment appears almost certain, according to J. W. Hibbs of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment station. Speaking during Farm and Home week at Ohio State university, Hibbs said he has little doubt that farm machinery engineers will soon be able to design such equipment to do the job at a reasonable cost.

Pelleting forage crops from the windrow at 30 percent or less moisture and before leaf shattering occurs would conserve most of the nutrients, make transportation easier and allow the farmer to use common ear corn elevators and storage in handling it.

Nevertheless, feeding pelleted forage has some disadvantages. The principle problem is that experimental work shows a drop in fat test when milking cows are fed only finely ground roughage, such as alfalfa meal. Researchers feel this is due to decreased formation of acetic acid, the principle precursor of butterfat, in the rumen (paunch).

Finely ground roughage passes through the rumen so fast there is insufficient time for normal bacterial fermentation of the cellulose in the roughage Dr. Hibbs explained. This low fat test has been overcome by feeding 5 or 6 pounds of loose hay, along with the finely ground roughage.

Several performance advantages of this pelleted forage have been observed with lambs, calves and beef cattle. These include increased dry feed intake, greater efficiency of feed utilization, faster growth, prevention of selective eating and waste and elimination of dust.

Pending further research, the cost of petteting must be balanced against (1) conservation of nutrients, (2) saving in labor, (3) reduction in storage space and (4) greater, more efficient animal performance.

Farm Groups Rap Rail Rate Boost

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farm groups are making a fight against a petition of the nation's railroads for additional increases in freight rates on farm products and farm production supplies.

All the major farm organizations have asked the Interstate Commerce Commission, transportation regulating agency, to turn down the petition. Secretary of Agriculture Benson joined them Monday, saying freight rates on crops and related farm products have increased 83 per cent and on animals and animal products 104 per cent since 1946. But prices received by farmers, he said, are 4 per cent lower.

Congressional Districts Get Study In Ohio

'ID Cards' To Buy Ohio Liquor Asked

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An echo of the 1956 congressional election will be heard in the Ohio Senate today.

The Senate is going to try to nail down—once and for all—the question of how to determine the most populous county in an Ohio congressional district.

There was a fat hassle in the 11th District—made up of the counties in the northeastern corner of Ohio—last year over whether Trumbull or Ashtabula was the county with the largest population.

Several congressional candidates filed their nominating petitions in Ashtabula County on grounds it was the most populous "whole county."

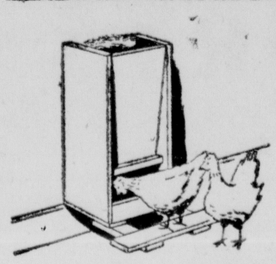

The law requires that nomination petitions must be filed in the most populous county.

But a part of Trumbull County is in the 11th District. Even that part of Trumbull County in the district has more population than any whole county in the district.

Ten other candidates filed at Warren, county seat of Trumbull County. Their petitions were accepted. The petitions of those who filed in Ashtabula County were thrown out. A lawsuit resulted, but the Ohio Supreme Court held those who filed in Trumbull County were correct.

Today's bill, sponsored by freshman Sen. C. Lee Mantle (R-Lake), seeks to write into the law exactly what the high court ruled—that congressional petitions must be filed in the most populous county in the district, whether it's a whole or part of a county.

YOUR ATTIC MAY CONTAIN KEY TO GAPS IN HISTORY

Lexington, Ky. — If you aren't careful, the next time you clean out your attic you may destroy valuable Circleville or Pickaway County records—or even part of your nation's history!

Court St., Circleville. The office here is the link between district farmers and the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

Roadside marketing can be an excellent way for Ohio farmers to increase their incomes, two Ohio State University extension specialists told Farm and Home Week visitors.

R. L. Bere, extension economist in fruits and vegetables, and T. W. Leed, extension specialist in food merchandising, said careful planning of a roadside market is the first step to a successful operation. Producers should consider such factors as location, labor requirements, type and size of buildings and facilities, initial and operating costs, what products can be sold, expected volume and whether or not the operation fits the overall farm program.

Once a farmer decides to sell products through a roadside market, the specialist pointed out, there are many things which can help him increase sales—adequate parking facilities, an attractive and well-landscaped market, displays which are neat, fresh and of dependable quality; variety in size and type of package, fair prices, advertising and courtesy toward customers.

Operators of roadside markets are, in effect, operating a retail store, Bere and Leed explained. Many of the same principles that successful supermarkets use can be applied to roadside markets.

For a final test, the specialist said, roadside market operators can ask themselves these questions concerning their operations: "Would I stop Here?" and "Would I Come Back?"

Planting corn without first fitting the land may have some merit, but it is not a practice which Ohio agronomists are ready to recommend.

J. L. Haynes, Ohio Agricultural Experiment station agronomist, told Farm and Home Week visitors that planting corn behind the plow, or in lightly fitted soil, may have some advantages as an erosion control measure. In some cases yields also have been higher than in well-prepared seedbeds. The big problem, he said, is in getting good stands.

"With the methods we are now using," the agronomist explained, "getting a stand is a risk with track planting. So we are not recommending the practice at this time." (track planting refers to planting corn in tractor wheel tracks without preparing a seedbed.)

The development, within the next few years, of suitable field pelleting equipment appears almost certain, according to J. W. Hibbs of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment station. Speaking during Farm and Home week at Ohio State university, Hibbs said he has little doubt that farm machinery engineers will soon be able to design such equipment to do the job at a reasonable cost.

Pelleting forage crops from the windrow at 30 percent or less moisture and before leaf shattering occurs would conserve most of the nutrients, make transportation easier and allow the farmer to use common ear corn elevators and storage in handling it.

Nevertheless, feeding pelleted forage has some disadvantages. The principle problem is that experimental work shows a drop in fat test when milking cows are fed only finely ground roughage, such as alfalfa meal. Researchers feel this is due to decreased formation of acetic acid, the principle precursor of butterfat, in the rumen (paunch).

Finely ground roughage passes through the rumen so fast there is insufficient time for normal bacterial fermentation of the cellulose in the roughage Dr. Hibbs explained. This low fat test has been overcome by feeding 5 or 6 pounds of loose hay, along with the finely ground roughage.

Several performance advantages of this pelleted forage have been observed with lambs, calves and beef cattle. These include increased dry feed intake, greater efficiency of feed utilization, faster growth, prevention of selective eating and waste and elimination of dust.

Pending further research, the cost of petteting must be balanced against (1) conservation of nutrients, (2) saving in labor, (3) reduction in storage space and (4) greater, more efficient animal performance.

Farm Groups Rap Rail Rate Boost

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farm groups are making a fight against a petition of the nation's railroads for additional increases in freight rates on farm products and farm production supplies.

All the major farm organizations have asked the Interstate Commerce Commission, transportation regulating agency, to turn down the petition. Secretary of Agriculture Benson joined them Monday, saying freight rates on crops and related farm products have increased 83 per cent and on animals and animal products 104 per cent since 1946. But prices received by farmers, he said, are 4 per cent lower.

Congressional Districts Get Study In Ohio

'ID Cards' To Buy Ohio Liquor Asked

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An echo of the 1956 congressional election will be heard in the Ohio Senate today.

The Senate is going to try to nail down—once and for all—the question of how to determine the most populous county in an Ohio congressional district.

There was a fat hassle in the 11th District—made up of the counties in the northeastern corner of Ohio—last year over whether Trumbull or Ashtabula was the county with the largest population.

Several congressional candidates filed their nominating petitions in Ashtabula County on grounds it was the most populous "whole county."

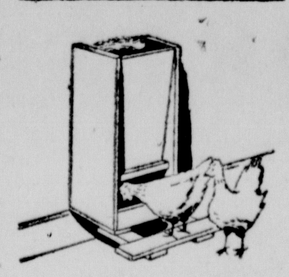

The law requires that nomination petitions must be filed in the most populous county.

But a part of Trumbull County is in the 11th District. Even that part of Trumbull County in the district has more population than any whole county in the district.

Ten other candidates filed at Warren, county seat of Trumbull County. Their petitions were accepted. The petitions of those who filed in Ashtabula County were thrown out. A lawsuit resulted, but the Ohio Supreme Court held those who filed in Trumbull County were correct.

Today's bill, sponsored by freshman Sen. C. Lee Mantle (R-Lake), seeks to write into the law exactly what the high court ruled—that congressional petitions must be filed in the most populous county in the district, whether it's a whole or part of a county.

Harvey Kuenn Still Big Gun For Detroiters

Old Reliable At 26, Outfielder's Big Bat Defeats Redlegs, 8-4

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It may be true, as Manager Jack Tighe says, that some of his Detroit Tigers are not earning their keep.

But he couldn't have been referring to Harvey Kuenn, an old reliable at 26. No matter how bad the Bengals get, Kuenn, a .332 hitter last year, goes his cool and calm way.

He already has hit three home runs this spring, including one in Tuesday's 8-4 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs at Lakeland, Fla.

In fact, if it weren't for Kuenn's efforts against the Redlegs, the Tigers would have gone down to another defeat. In addition to his home run, he crashed out a single and two doubles for a perfect day at bat.

But the Tigers, who are rated one of the New York Yankees' main stumbling blocks in the pennant chase, still have a poor record — six victories and 10 defeats.

The Cleveland Indians, who also fancy themselves as contenders, are also having troubles. They went down to another defeat — this one a 7-6 decision to the Baltimore Orioles — at Scottsdale, Ariz.

The Orioles won the game in the ninth inning on Wayne Causey's two-run pinch single and another single by rookie Brooks Robinson.

Elsewhere, the Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 8-3 at Clearwater; the New York Giants nipped the Chicago Cubs 7-6 at Mesa, Ariz.; the Pittsburgh Pirates whitewashed the St. Louis Cardinals 4-0 at St. Petersburg; the Washington Senators turned back the Kansas City A's 8-7 at Orlando; and the Boston Red Sox edged the Los Angeles League 6-5 in Los Angeles.

The Brooks got to left-hander Harvey Haddix for eight straight hits and seven runs in the third inning. Don Newcombe went six innings for the Dodgers and was touched for all the Phillies' runs.

Don Mueller turned an apparent defeat into victory for the Giants when he hit a grand slam home run off Turk Lown with two out in the ninth.

Dick Hall, Nelson King and Elroy Face divided the Pirate shutout over the Cards. Combined, they allowed only two hits.

Kansas City had four home runs against the Senators, including two by Yank castoff Bob Cerv, but they couldn't cash in. The Nats had the big one, a grand slammer by Harmon Killebrew.

Giardello Favored To Defeat Vaughn

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Ring-wise Joey Giardello of Brooklyn is favored to win tonight over Willie Vaughn of Los Angeles in their televised 10-round bout.

Ranked No. 2 among middleweights, Giardello has won his last seven fights and has a record of 67-13-5. He is 26 years old.

Vaughn, 24, is the West Coast 160-pound champion but is not rated among the top 10 middleweights. His record is 32-13-4.

Giardello says he is trying to prove he is a logical choice for a title bout with the winner of the Gene Fullmer-Sugar Ray Robinson championship fight.

CHICAGO (AP)—Joe Chamaco of Mexico City and champion Harold Worst of Grand Rapids, Mich., will meet for the world's three-cushion billiards championship here starting Saturday night.

The two will play a 1,200 point title match. The match, originally scheduled in Mexico City five weeks, was postponed and transferred here with a return match scheduled for Mexico next fall.

Training Camp Briefs

By The Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla., (AP) — The Chicago White Sox are concerned about their relief pitching and are concentrating on landing some bull pen help.

"Right now we have only one fellow who appears to be ready to do a good relief job for us and that is Dixie Howell," said Manager Al Lopez.

Tom Flanigan, Don Rudolph and Joe Dahlke, all up from Memphis, were considered the top relief candidates among the newcomers but none has been impressive so far.

MESA, Ariz., (AP) — Trade winds are blowing in the Chicago Cub training camp and a deal with either the New York Giants or St. Louis Cardinals is reported a good possibility.

The Giants are after Cub catcher Ray Katt and seemingly are willing to part with a lefthanded pitcher. The Giants are loaded with southpaws while the Cub roster lists only one, Jackie Cullom.

The Cardinals are after Cub pitcher Bob Rush but vice president John Holland said "We'd have to get an awful lot to give up Rush."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Boston slugger Ted Williams, who prefers casual dress without a tie, plans to go "formal" to help honor his boss — Red Sox owner Tom Yawkey.

Williams agreed Tuesday to be toastmaster at the annual dinner of the Variety Club of New England April 14 when Yawkey will be presented the group's "Great Heart Award."

Williams has rejected most dinner invitations during his career with the Red Sox. He especially dislikes having to war a tie.

LAKELAND, Fla., (AP) — Duke Snider, the Brooklyn Dodgers home run slugger, says he isn't worried about his lack of hits so far this spring.

Manager Walt Alston says the same thing.

But Alston apparently has decided not to use Snider against lefthanded pitchers.

Alston left him out of the lineup against the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday. Yes, a lefty, Harvey Haddix, started for the Phils.

BRADENTON, Fla., (AP) — Johnny Logan, the Milwaukee Braves most consistent hitter last September, is leading the team in spring training with a nifty .394 average.

Logan is tied with Henry Aaron for runs-driven-in honors. They each have 10. Aaron, who has missed several games, has a .345 average.

Bobby Thomson and Danny O'Connell, criticized for weak hitting last year, are .278 and .250 respectively.

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz., (AP) — Nineteen - year - old Brooks Robinson, who only draws a rookie's salary, may push the Orioles' highest paid player, George Kell, off third base.

Robinson continued his sensational hitting Tuesday driving in four runs — one of them on a ninth-inning single to give the Orioles a 7-6 win over the Indians.

If Robinson continues hitting the way he has been, he'll probably open the season at third base for the Birds. If that happens Kell would probably move to first.

Besides the game - winning single, Robinson hit a bases-loaded double in the first inning and later drew a base on balls with the sacks full.

Seattle '5' Enters AAU Cage Tourney

DENVER (AP) — The defending champion Seattle Bakers entered the 50th National AAU Basketball war for the first time today, intent on avoiding upsets at the hands of a steady bunch of first round survivors.

Half of the 16 teams competing in today's busy second round will be around for the quarterfinals of the week-long tourney Thursday.

Tuesday night lightly regarded Brownstown, Ind., featuring former All-America Don Schlundt, knocked off the Marine All-Stars in a feature tilt, 67-63.

The Army and Air Force showed class and scoring punch in their debuts. The soldiers crushed little Ouachita Baptist College of Arkadelphia (Ark.) 107-76, and the Air Force outraced Columbus, Ohio, 94-64.

A classy bunch of small-college stars from Joliet, Ill., spilled Jacksonville, Fla., 63-54, and in a re-play of their game 24 hours earlier, Seattle Autos beat Cedar Rapids, Iowa, 82-69.

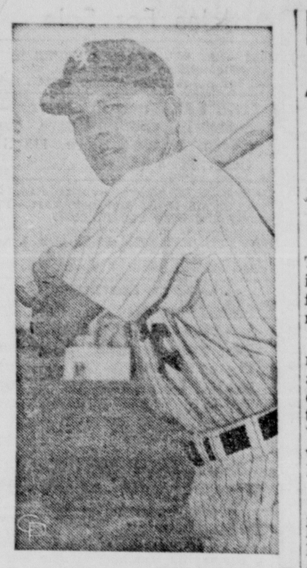

The re-play was ordered by tourney officials who earlier had disqualified Seattle Autos for using three players considered ineligible. On grounds the team had acted in good faith in recruiting the trio, however, it was allowed the second contest and the use of one of the three players.

Rosewall Topples Mighty Gonzales

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)— Ken Rosewall, the little master craftsman from Australia, toppled Pancho Gonzales of California Tuesday night to trim Gonzales' lead on their international professional tennis tour to 27-11.

Rosewall, after a shaky start, executed his sharp, line-cutting passing shots with near perfect precision to whip Gonzales, 1-6, 6-2, 6-3.

In the other singles match, Pancho Segura outshot Dinny Pails in a single professional set.

MANAGER Paul Richards announced in Scottsdale, Ariz., that the Baltimore Orioles have acquired infielder Jim Brideweser, 29, from the Detroit Tigers for slightly in excess of the $10,000 waiver price. The utility infielder hit .216 with the Chicago White Sox and Tigers in '56. (International)

Miami Basketball Stars Get Honors

OXFORD (AP)—Wayne Embry, 6-foot-7 senior center walked off with the lion's share of awards Tuesday night when Miami University's basketball squad was honored by the Oxford Roundball Club. Embry was named most valuable player and won the top overall efficiency award.

Jim Thomas, 6-foot-3 sophomore guard, won the free throw award with a .82 average—69 of 84 tries.

Ted Kluszewski's Condition Pondered

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—The condition of Ted Kluszewski, muscleman of Cincinnati's Redlegs, became a puzzle Tuesday after he failed to make the lineup in an exhibition game with Detroit.

Manager Birdie Tebbetts has let his slugger do his own conditioning this spring, because of a painful hip injury that hampered Klu last year.

The Redlegs outhit the Tigers, 13-11, but the Detroiters made good on their safeties and some Redleg bobbles for an 8-4 victory.

Figures Show Detroit Looms As Team To Topple Yankees

Editor's Note: Following is another in a series of articles appraising the 1957 major league baseball teams.

By JOE REICHLER

LAKELAND, Fla., (AP) — Jack Tighe, Detroit's rookie manager, is the kind of fellow you like at first acquaintance. The same cannot be said of his band of Tigers.

Maybe the players have been reading their press clippings. . . and believe them. It has been the experts' contention that if any team seriously challenged the New York Yankees for the top prize it will be Detroit. Supporting this belife are some sound figures.

Don't the Tigers possess four .300 hitters in Al Kaline, Harvey Kuenn, Charlie Maxwell and Ray Boone? Didn't they boast two 20-game winners in Frank Lary and Billy Hoeft? Weren't they the best team in baseball toward the close of the 1956 season, winning 43 of the last 67? And wasn't the stocky, ruddy-faced, 43-year-old Tighe supposed to supply the fire that Bucky Harris, his predecessor, lacked?

"The fellows don't look so good now," Tighe admitted, "but they'll get going. They're too good to continue playing this kind of ball. We have a few problems but we have two good things going for us — hitting and pitching. Our three front line pitchers — Lary (21-13), Hoeft (20-14) and Paul Foytack (15-13) plus the presence of such proven hitters as Kaline (.314), Kuenn (.332), Maxwell (.326) and Boone (.308) — should give us as good a chance as any of the other three contenders, Cleveland, Chicago and Boston, to catch the Yankees.

But we have to come up with another starting pitcher. No question about that . . . We also could use another outfielder and maybe a catcher who can hit the long-ball."

Tighe is enthusiastic about Don Lee, 23-year-old righthanded son of Thornton Lee, the old pitcher, and Jim Bunning, who seems to have cured the wildness that prevented him from staying up last year.

Other pitchers who should stick include Duke Maas, the veteran Steve Gromek, reliefers Al Aber and Jack Crimian and Jim Brady, whose bonus status runs out in June.

Kaline and Maxwell are fixtures in the outfield but Tighe is undecided about Bill Tuttle in center field.

"Tuttle had a poor season last year and didn't look good in the early part of this spring," Tighe said. "He's been a little better lately. If he doesn't come around some more we're going to be hurt. We've got a pretty good hitter in bonus boy Jim Small but I'm afraid he might be too big a gamble. Mel Clark, who once played with the Phillies, has surprised us and may stick."

Boone, the convered third baseman, is still trying to learn the rudiments of playing first base. He hasn't done too badly but the betting is he'll be back at third when the season opens. Jim Finigan, acquired from Kansas City to play third, reported out of shape and hasn't looked good either in the field or at bat, according to Tighe.

"We'll keep Boone at first and see," Tighe explained. "If he doesn't make it, he'll go back to third and we may have to platoon Eddie Robinson and Earl Torgeson."

Kuenn, of course, is set at shortstop. So is Frank Bolling at second. Jack Dittmer, the Milwaukee pickup, will be the infield reserve. Tighe called his catching duo of Frank House and Red Wilson "not outstanding but adequate."

Most Power of the Low-Priced 3!

Everybody agrees . . . the main reason for buying a truck is to haul a payload. That being the case, doesn't it make sense to get the truck that's powered and built to carry the most in its weight class? Of course it does! That's why so many truck owners are switching to Dodge.

Dodge gives you the most powerful V-8's of the low-priced three, ranging from 204-hp. pick-ups to 232-hp. tandems. And Dodge trucks are built especially tough to handle bigger loads. For instance, Dodge pick-ups can haul up to one-third more than other competitive makes.

Dodge makes hauling these bigger loads easier, too. Shorter turning radius lets you needle in and out of tough traffic spots in a jiffy. Power steering is available on most models, and the extra convenience of a push-button transmission* can be yours only with Dodge.

Think it over. After all, it's just plain good business to get the most for your money . . . and your dealer can prove the most truck for your money is Dodge.

*Available in all low-tonnage and Forward-Control models.

Actual Payload Capacity 1825 lbs. | Actual Payload Capacity 1400 lbs. | Actual Payload Capacity 1500 lbs.

Facts prove the Dodge D100 pick-up beats both competitive low-priced models in payload. Model compared is a Dodge 6, 100 pick-up, 7½-foot body. In larger pick-ups the Dodge lead is even greater.

Harvey Kuenn Still Big Gun For Detroiters

Old Reliable At 26, Outfielder's Big Bat Defeats Redlegs, 8-4

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It may be true, as Manager Jack Tighe says, that some of his Detroit Tigers are not earning their keep.

But he couldn't have been referring to Harvey Kuenn, an old reliable at 26. No matter how bad the Bengals get, Kuenn, a .332 hitter last year, goes his cool and calm way.

He already has hit three home runs this spring, including one in Tuesday's 8-4 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs at Lakeland, Fla.

In fact, if it weren't for Kuenn's efforts against the Redlegs, the Tigers would have gone down to another defeat. In addition to his home run, he crashed out a single and two doubles for a perfect day at bat.

But the Tigers, who are rated one of the New York Yankees' main stumbling blocks in the pennant chase, still have a poor record — six victories and 10 defeats.

The Cleveland Indians, who also fancy themselves as contenders, are also having troubles. They went down to another defeat — this one a 7-6 decision to the Baltimore Orioles — at Scottsdale, Ariz.

The Orioles won the game in the ninth inning on Wayne Causey's two-run pinch single and another single by rookie Brooks Robinson.

Elsewhere, the Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 8-3 at Clearwater; the New York Giants nipped the Chicago Cubs 7-6 at Mesa, Ariz.; the Pittsburgh Pirates whitewashed the St. Louis Cardinals 4-0 at St. Petersburg; the Washington Senators turned back the Kansas City A's 8-7 at Orlando; and the Boston Red Sox edged the Los Angeles League 6-5 in Los Angeles.

The Brooks got to left-hander Harvey Haddix for eight straight hits and seven runs in the third inning. Don Newcombe went six innings for the Dodgers and was touched for all the Phillies' runs.

Don Mueller turned an apparent defeat into victory for the Giants when he hit a grand slam home run off Turk Lown with two out in the ninth.

Dick Hall, Nelson King and Elroy Face divided the Pirate shutout over the Cards. Combined, they allowed only two hits.

Kansas City had four home runs against the Senators, including two by Yank castoff Bob Cerv, but they couldn't cash in. The Nats had the big one, a grand slammer by Harmon Killebrew.

Giardello Favored To Defeat Vaughn

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Ring-wise Joey Giardello of Brooklyn is favored to win tonight over Willie Vaughn of Los Angeles in their televised 10-round bout.

Ranked No. 2 among middleweights, Giardello has won his last seven fights and has a record of 67-13-5. He is 26 years old.

Vaughn, 24, is the West Coast 160-pound champion but is not rated among the top 10 middleweights. His record is 32-13-4.

Giardello says he is trying to prove he is a logical choice for a title bout with the winner of the Gene Fullmer-Sugar Ray Robinson championship fight.

3-Cushion Billard Tourney Awaited

CHICAGO (AP)—Joe Chamaco of Mexico City and champion Harold Worst of Grand Rapids, Mich., will meet for the world's three-cushion billiards championship here starting Saturday night.

The two will play a 1,200 point title match. The match, originally scheduled in Mexico City five weeks, was postponed and transferred here with a return match scheduled for Mexico next fall.

Training Camp Briefs

By The Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla., (AP) — The Chicago White Sox are concerned about their relief pitching and are concentrating on landing some bull pen help.

"Right now we have only one fellow who appears to be ready to do a good relief job for us and that is Dixie Howell," said Manager Al Lopez.

Tom Flanigan, Don Rudolph and Joe Dahlke, all up from Memphis, were considered the top relief candidates among the newcomers but none has been impressive so far.

MESA, Ariz., (AP) — Trade winds are blowing in the Chicago Cub training camp and a deal with either the New York Giants or St. Louis Cardinals is reported a good possibility.

The Giants are after Cub catcher Ray Katt and seemingly are willing to part with a lefthanded pitcher. The Giants are loaded with southpaws while the Cub roster lists only one, Jackie Cullom.

The Cardinals are after Cub pitcher Bob Rush but vice president John Holland said "We'd have to get an awful lot to give up Rush."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Boston slugger Ted Williams, who prefers casual dress without a tie, plans to go "formal" to help honor his boss — Red Sox owner Tom Yawkey.

Williams agreed Tuesday to be toastmaster at the annual dinner of the Variety Club of New England April 14 when Yawkey will be presented the group's "Great Heart Award."

Williams has rejected most dinner invitations during his career with the Red Sox. He especially dislikes having to war a tie.

LAKELAND, Fla., (AP) — Duke Snider, the Brooklyn Dodgers home run slugger, says he isn't worried about his lack of hits so far this spring.

Manager Walt Alston says the same thing.

But Alston apparently has decided not to use Snider against lefthanded pitchers.

Alston left him out of the lineup against the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday. Yes, a lefty, Harvey Haddix, started for the Phils.

BRADENTON, Fla., (AP) — Johnny Logan, the Milwaukee Braves most consistent hitter last September, is leading the team in spring training with a nifty .394 average.

Logan is tied with Henry Aaron for runs-driven-in honors. They each have 10. Aaron, who has missed several games, has a .345 average.

Bobby Thomson and Danny O'Connell, criticized for weak hitting last year, are .278 and .250 respectively.

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz., (AP) — Nineteen - year - old Brooks Robinson, who only draws a rookie's salary, may push the Orioles' highest paid player, George Kell, off third base.

Robinson continued his sensational hitting Tuesday driving in four runs — one of them on a ninth-inning single to give the Orioles a 7-6 win over the Indians.

If Robinson continues hitting the way he has been, he'll probably open the season at third base for the Birds. If that happens Kell would probably move to first.

Besides the game - winning single, Robinson hit a bases-loaded double in the first inning and later drew a base on balls with the sacks full.

Seattle '5' Enters AAU Cage Tourney

DENVER (AP) — The defending champion Seattle Bakers entered the 50th National AAU Basketball war for the first time today, intent on avoiding upsets at the hands of a steady bunch of first round survivors.

Half of the 16 teams competing in today's busy second round will be around for the quarterfinals of the week-long tourney Thursday.

Tuesday night lightly regarded Brownstown, Ind., featuring former All-America Don Schlundt, knocked off the Marine All-Stars in a feature tilt, 67-63.

The Army and Air Force showed class and scoring punch in their debuts. The soldiers crushed little Ouachita Baptist College of Arkadelphia (Ark.) 107-76, and the Air Force outraced Columbus, Ohio, 94-64.

A classy bunch of small-college stars from Joliet, Ill., spilled Jacksonville, Fla., 63-54, and in a re-play of their game 24 hours earlier, Seattle Autos beat Cedar Rapids, Iowa, 82-69.

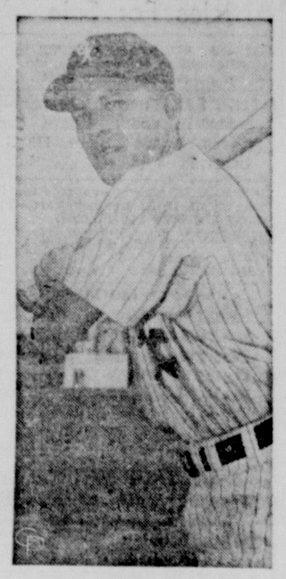

The re-play was ordered by tourney officials who earlier had disqualified Seattle Autos for using three players considered ineligible. On grounds the team had acted in good faith in recruiting the trio, however, it was allowed the second contest and the use of one of the three players.

Rosewall Topples Mighty Gonzales

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)— Ken Rosewall, the little master craftsman from Australia, toppled Pancho Gonzales of California Tuesday night to trim Gonzales' lead on their international professional tennis tour to 27-11.

Rosewall, after a shaky start, executed his sharp, line-cutting passing shots with near perfect precision to whip Gonzales, 1-6, 6-2, 6-3.

In the other singles match, Pancho Segura outshot Dinny Pails in a single professional set.

MANAGER Paul Richards announced in Scottsdale, Ariz., that the Baltimore Orioles have acquired infielder Jim Brideweser, 29, from the Detroit Tigers for slightly in excess of the $10,000 waiver price. The utility infielder hit .216 with the Chicago White Sox and Tigers in '56. (International)

Miami Basketball Stars Get Honors

OXFORD (AP)—Wayne Embry, 6-foot-7 senior center walked off with the lion's share of awards Tuesday night when Miami University's basketball squad was honored by the Oxford Roundball Club. Embry was named most valuable player and won the top overall efficiency award.

Jim Thomas, 6-foot-3 sophomore guard, won the free throw award with a .82 average—69 of 84 tries.

Ted Kluszewski's Condition Pondered

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—The condition of Ted Kluszewski, muscleman of Cincinnati's Redlegs, became a puzzle Tuesday after he failed to make the lineup in an exhibition game with Detroit.

Manager Birdie Tebbetts has let his slugger do his own conditioning this spring, because of a painful hip injury that hampered Klu last year.

The Redlegs outhit the Tigers, 13-11, but the Detroiters made good on their safeties and some Redleg bobbles for an 8-4 victory.

Figures Show Detroit Looms As Team To Topple Yankees

Editor's Note: Following is another in a series of articles appraising the 1957 major league baseball teams.

By JOE REICHLER

LAKELAND, Fla., (AP) — Jack Tighe, Detroit's rookie manager, is the kind of fellow you like at first acquaintance. The same cannot be said of his band of Tigers.

Maybe the players have been reading their press clippings. . . and believe them. It has been the experts' contention that if any team seriously challenged the New York Yankees for the top prize it will be Detroit. Supporting this belife are some sound figures.

Don't the Tigers possess four .300 hitters in Al Kaline, Harvey Kuenn, Charlie Maxwell and Ray Boone? Didn't they boast two 20-game winners in Frank Lary and Billy Hoeft? Weren't they the best team in baseball toward the close of the 1956 season, winning 43 of the last 67? And wasn't the stocky, ruddy-faced, 43-year-old Tighe supposed to supply the fire that Bucky Harris, his predecessor, lacked?

"The fellows don't look so good now," Tighe admitted, "but they'll get going. They're too good to continue playing this kind of ball. We have a few problems but we have two good things going for us — hitting and pitching. Our three front line pitchers — Lary (21-13), Hoeft (20-14) and Paul Foytack (15-13) plus the presence of such proven hitters as Kaline (.314), Kuenn (.332), Maxwell (.326) and Boone (.308) — should give us as good a chance as any of the other three contenders, Cleveland, Chicago and Boston, to catch the Yankees.

But we have to come up with another starting pitcher. No question about that . . . We also could use another outfielder and maybe a catcher who can hit the long-ball."

Tighe is enthusiastic about Don Lee, 23-year-old righthanded son of Thornton Lee, the old pitcher, and Jim Bunning, who seems to have cured the wildness that prevented him from staying up last year.

Other pitchers who should stick include Duke Maas, the veteran Steve Gromek, reliefers Al Aber and Jack Crimian and Jim Brady, whose bonus status runs out in June.

Kaline and Maxwell are fixtures in the outfield but Tighe is undecided about Bill Tuttle in center field.

"Tuttle had a poor season last year and didn't look good in the early part of this spring," Tighe said. "He's been a little better lately. If he doesn't come around some more we're going to be hurt. We've got a pretty good hitter in bonus boy Jim Small but I'm afraid he might be too big a gamble. Mel Clark, who once played with the Phillies, has surprised us and may stick."

Boone, the convered third baseman, is still trying to learn the rudiments of playing first base. He hasn't done too badly but the betting is he'll be back at third when the season opens. Jim Finigan, acquired from Kansas City to play third, reported out of shape and hasn't looked good either in the field or at bat, according to Tighe.

"We'll keep Boone at first and see," Tighe explained. "If he doesn't make it, he'll go back to third and we may have to platoon Eddie Robinson and Earl Torgeson."

Kuenn, of course, is set at shortstop. So is Frank Bolling at second. Jack Dittmer, the Milwaukee pickup, will be the infield reserve. Tighe called his catching duo of Frank House and Red Wilson "not outstanding but adequate."

Most Power of the Low-Priced 3!

Everybody agrees . . . the main reason for buying a truck is to haul a payload. That being the case, doesn't it make sense to get the truck that's powered and built to carry the most in its weight class? Of course it does! That's why so many truck owners are switching to Dodge.

Dodge gives you the most powerful V-8's of the low-priced three, ranging from 204-hp. pick-ups to 232-hp. tandems. And Dodge trucks are built especially tough to handle bigger loads. For instance, Dodge pick-ups can haul up to one-third more than other competitive makes.

Dodge makes hauling these bigger loads easier, too. Shorter turning radius lets you needle in and out of tough traffic spots in a jiffy. Power steering is available on most models, and the extra convenience of a push-button transmission* can be yours only with Dodge.

Think it over. After all, it's just plain good business to get the most for your money . . . and your dealer can prove the most truck for your money is Dodge.

*Available in all low-tonnage and Forward-Control models.

Actual Payload Capacity 1825 lbs. | Actual Payload Capacity 1400 lbs. | Actual Payload Capacity 1500 lbs.

Facts prove the Dodge D100 pick-up beats both competitive low-priced models in payload. Model compared is a Dodge 6, 100 pick-up, 7½-foot body. In larger pick-ups the Dodge lead is even greater.

Draft Board Now Sending Forms To Local Standby Reservists

Jack E. Clifton, chairman of the draft board for Pickaway County, today announced the receipt of standby reserve forms from state selective service headquarters along with instructions for helping evaluate the reservists in this county.

"Congress, in its last session, enacted a law placing upon the selective service system responsibility of screening the nation's entire standby reserve, men and women. The reservists are being mailed questionnaires to be filled out and returned to local boards for use in determining their availability in time of national emergency," Clifton said.

In explaining why the standby reservists are receiving these questionnaires, the local board chairman pointed out some of the problems which faced the standby reservists in years past. He recalled, "In time of emergency the standby reservists had no way of judging if and when he would be called to active duty.

"This was actually less knowledge than most selective service registrants had in regard to their status, since selective service registrants could find out many things regarding their situation, and also had the opportunity of presenting information to their draft boards (made up of local people), who could take action to reclassify the registrants where circumstances warranted it."

* * *

THE STANDBY reservist meanwhile was trying to judge his vulnerability by watching and listening to news reports. The new law designed to correct this situation by insuring that each reservist would be called to active duty only after full consideration had been given all the facts in his case, as well as the weighing of the effect that his entry on active duty would have on the national health, safety or interest.

Each standby reservist will be placed in one of three categories, based upon the information in his questionnaire: I-R (available), II-R (deferred for civilian occupation essential to the maintenance of the national health, safety or interest), or III-R (deferred by reason of extreme hardship and privation to dependents).

In time of war or national emergency declared by Congress, this will give the standby reservist a clearer picture of his position regarding his or her recall to active duty.

The standby reservist has the right of appeal if he is not convinced that his category is correct, but continues to have the responsibility to keep his local board informed of any change of address or status.

The program will provide a service not only to the standby reservist who will know his emergency recall status, but the armed services, which will likewise know the availability of their standby reserve pools.

Harvard Lampoons Hollywood Stars

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The Harvard University Lampoon, college humor magazine, has lampooned several movie stars for their 1956 acting performances.

The Lampoon "cited" Jennifer Jones and Gregory Peck for the worst acting performances in "The Man in the Grey Flannel Suit" and "Moby Dick," respectively.

It named Elvis Presley "the worst supporting actor in the world" for "Love Me Tender" and Anne Baxter as the "worst supporting actress in the world" for her performance in "The Ten Commandments."

Seiberling, Union OK New Contract

AKRON (AP) — Seiberling Rubber Co. and the United Rubber Workers have agreed on a new master contract covering 1,700 workers in plants at Barberton and Carey until May 1, 1959.

The announcement followed the end Monday of an unauthorized walkout of 33 employes in a mill room in a dispute over work assignments. The walkout started last Thursday.

The new contract does not involve wages, which will be negotiated later this year.

School Support Tied To Democracy

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Mayor Charles P. Taft says he thinks groups that fail to support school improvement often "do not understand democracy.

Taft told a group of elementary school principals Monday night that the democratic system evolved from early religious groups before the American revolution, in which freedom of expression had to be tolerated.

"They could never be sure," he said, "but what God was speaking through the member who had the floor," and they wound up with a decision acceptable to everyone.

Democrat Office Files Ransacked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic National Committee's offices were ransacked Tuesday night and "files were pulled open and disturbed."

Samuel C. Brightman, director of public affairs for the committee, said files in the library and Chairman Paul M. Butler's office were opened and papers strewn about.

"It apparently wasn't vandalism," Brightman said. "The assumption would be that they were after something. Just what is a little baffling to me."

He recalled, "In time of emergency the standby reservists had no way of judging if and when he would be called to active duty.

"This was actually less knowledge than most selective service registrants had in regard to their status, since selective service registrants could find out many things regarding their situation, and also had the opportunity of presenting information to their draft boards (made up of local people), who could take action to reclassify the registrants where circumstances warranted it."

THE STANDBY reservist meanwhile was trying to judge his vulnerability by watching and listening to news reports. The new law designed to correct this situation by insuring that each reservist would be called to active duty only after full consideration had been given all the facts in his case, as well as the weighing of the effect that his entry on active duty would have on the national health, safety or interest.

Each standby reservist will be placed in one of three categories, based upon the information in his questionnaire: I-R (available), II-R (deferred for civilian occupation essential to the maintenance of the national health, safety or interest), or III-R (deferred by reason of extreme hardship and privation to dependents).

In time of war or national emergency declared by Congress, this will give the standby reservist a clearer picture of his position regarding his or her recall to active duty.

The standby reservist has the right of appeal if he is not convinced that his category is correct, but continues to have the responsibility to keep his local board informed of any change of address or status.

The program will provide a service not only to the standby reservist who will know his emergency recall status, but the armed services, which will likewise know the availability of their standby reserve pools.

Harvard Lampoons Hollywood Stars

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The Harvard University Lampoon, college humor magazine, has lampooned several movie stars for their 1956 acting performances.

The Lampoon "cited" Jennifer Jones and Gregory Peck for the worst acting performances in "The Man in the Grey Flannel Suit" and "Moby Dick," respectively.

It named Elvis Presley "the worst supporting actor in the world" for "Love Me Tender" and Anne Baxter as the "worst supporting actress in the world" for her performance in "The Ten Commandments."

Seiberling, Union OK New Contract

AKRON (AP) — Seiberling Rubber Co. and the United Rubber Workers have agreed on a new master contract covering 1,700 workers in plants at Barberton and Carey until May 1, 1959.

The announcement followed the end Monday of an unauthorized walkout of 33 employes in a mill room in a dispute over work assignments. The walkout started last Thursday.

The new contract does not involve wages, which will be negotiated later this year.

School Support Tied To Democracy

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Mayor Charles P. Taft says he thinks groups that fail to support school improvement often "do not understand democracy.

Taft told a group of elementary school principals Monday night that the democratic system evolved from early religious groups before the American revolution, in which freedom of expression had to be tolerated.

"They could never be sure," he said, "but what God was speaking through the member who had the floor," and they wound up with a decision acceptable to everyone.

Democrat Office Files Ransacked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic National Committee's offices were ransacked Tuesday night and "files were pulled open and disturbed."

Samuel C. Brightman, director of public affairs for the committee, said files in the library and Chairman Paul M. Butler's office were opened and papers strewn about.

"It apparently wasn't vandalism," Brightman said. "The assumption would be that they were after something. Just what is a little baffling to me."

MARION (AP)—Ross Taylor, 33, an employe of Ohio Consolidated Gas Co., was arrested Tuesday on a grand larceny charge in the $2,600 burglary of Consolidated's Springfield office.
